FORDE SAYS BIG ALLIED DRIVE BEGINS

Lawmakers Give Time To Defense

Program Is Subject to Amendment, G. O. P. Leaders Say as Study Begins.

Statement Given

Page and Ostertag Are Open to Suggestions on Two Bills

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—New York's legislature pushed today toward a final vote a bill to permit construction of power lines across state forest preserves after a bitter battle which brought a Republican senator's accusation the Roosevelt Administration is "playing politics in this war."

The debate, following on the heels of a state power authority predicted of rationing of electricity, centered in the Republican-controlled Senate over advancement of the measure to allow construction of a proposed $30,000,000 power distribution line from New York to Massena across two small state forests in Lewis county.

Protesting that the wording of the bill gave so much authority to the state conservation commissioner that it constituted "a blanket surrender of legislative power to these officials for ever," Senator Poliny W. Williamson, Westchester Republican added:

"And I charge directly, and as directly as I can, that the Federal Government under Franklin D. Roosevelt administration is playing politics and is playing politics in this war."

Bills Are Studied

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—The Legislature turned a critical eye today on the first bills in Governor Lehman's war program, already stripped of a provision concentrating in the State Defense Council power to remove local officials recalcitrant in defense activity.

Encouraged by Republican assurances that "every bill is subject to amendment," lawmakers scrutinized closely two measures introduced last night to give the State Defense Council enforceable command over defense and establish penalties for violations of regulations.

"The Republican majority is not committed to the contents of the measures," Senator Roy M. Page, and Assemblyman Harold C. Ostertag, Republican co-sponsor, asserted. "We are ready and willing to receive suggestions and consider amendments from everyone interested in our state's defense setup."

The provision for removal of local officials, viewed by Republicans as one possible source of "local irritation," they desire to avoid, was rewritten prior to introduction, in a conference between majority leaders and Nathan Sobel, counsel to the Democratic governor.

The revised provision still would permit three members of a local defense council to file a formal charge of dereliction of defense duties against local officials.

But the removal power, in the case of appointed officials, would be vested in the appointing body or individual, while the governor would continue to oust elected officials. Governor Lehman originally proposed the State Defense Council wield the actual removal power.

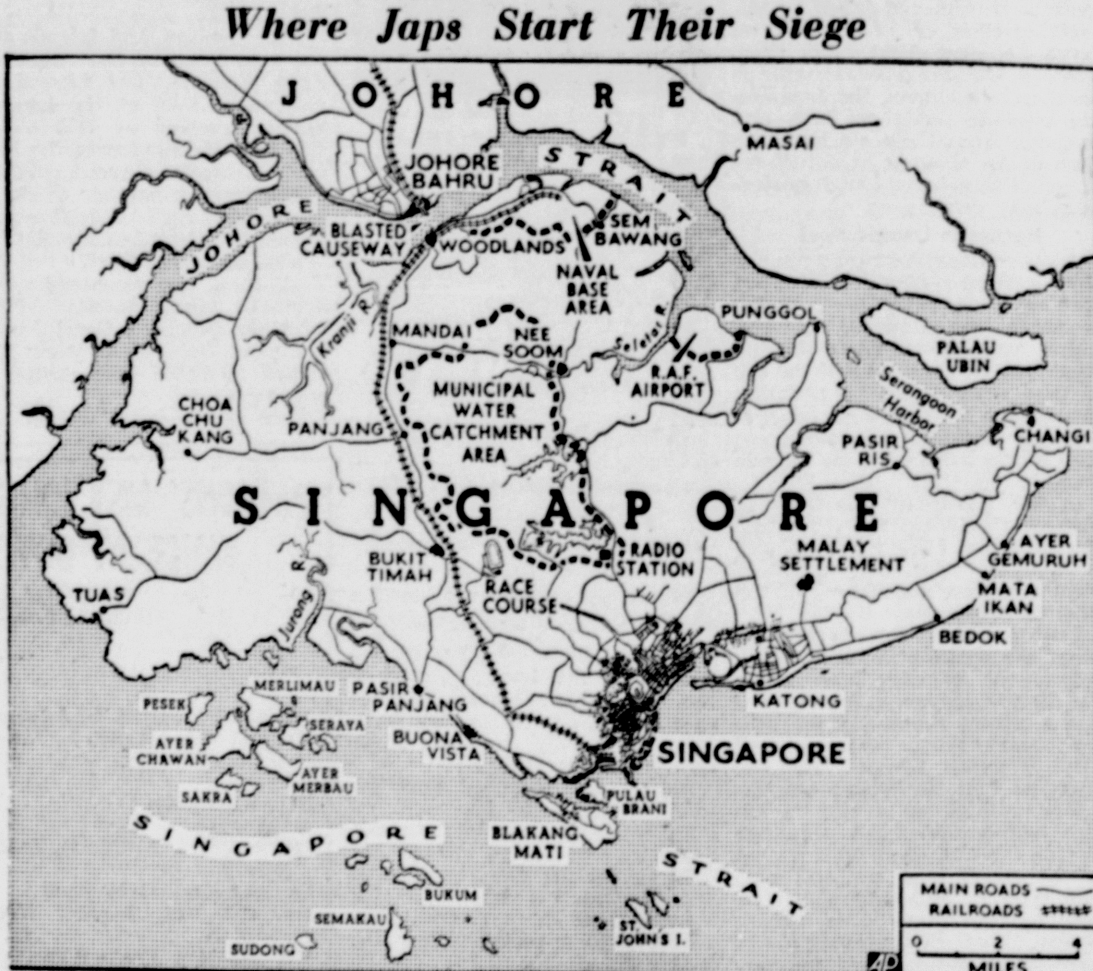

One of the two pending bills, sponsored by Ostertag and John J. Dunnigan, Senate Democratic minority leader, would, among other provisions, establish state and local offices of civilian protection, with local directors in complete command in emergencies.

It also would authorize the State Defense Council to establish and enforce state orders implementing any federal rationing, freezing or price-fixing decree.

The second bill, introduced by Page and Democratic Assemblyman Edmund Delaney, New York city, would authorize upstate municipalities to purchase property for air-raid shelters.

The measure would classify as misdemeanors the impersonation of air raid wardens, failure of individuals or corporations to guard strategic properties on order, and circulating of false air raid alarms. Violation of blackout regulations would be an "infraction" punishable by five days' imprisonment or $25 fine.

Australia Plans Draft
Melbourne, Feb. 3 (AP)—War Minister Francis Forde announced today that plans were being prepared to augment Australia's labor supply by drafting certain classes of aliens for work on non-military projects.

In Johore Bahru, across Johore Strait from Singapore Island, Japanese invasion forces are headquarters for the big test. Opinion was divided as to whether the Nipponese would try to storm the citadel or simply keep it under siege.

Public Gets First Chance For Voice in Morgan's Firm

16,500 Shares of Stock Are Placed on Sale at $206; 20 Owners Contribute

By JAMES MARLOW

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—The outside world—the public—today for the first time had a chance for a voice in the affairs of J. P. Morgan and Company, Inc.

Just as Wall Street closed up shop yesterday, Smith Barney and Co., Brokers, announced they bought 16,500 shares of the Morgan Bank's capital stock—8.25 per cent of the outstanding stock—and would sell them publicly at $206 a share.

Through 80 years of few changes the bank remained a financial citadel in every sense of the word, with hand-picked partners and officers and only an estimated 80 shareholders since it changed from a partnership to a corporation two years ago.

Day and night 35 former United States Marines guard the bank—inside and out—while still bears marks of a mysterious explosion that rocked Wall Street in September, 1929, killing 30 persons, two of them Morgan employees.

J. P. Morgan—the name he always uses as distinguished from his father, J. Pierpont Morgan, who founded the bank in 1861—was in Europe at the time of the blast.

20 Holders Contribute

About 20 stockholders are reported to have contributed part of their holdings to make up the 16,500 shares to be offered in order to obtain a wider distribution for the bank's stock, an idea reportedly under consideration since the time of incorporation, April 1, 1940.

Heavy American Planes Raid Jap Airfields at Kuala Lumpur and Kuantan

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Daring new American air and sea attacks to slow the onrush of Japanese forces in the southwestern Pacific were confidently expected today on the basis of official statements.

An army report that formations of heavy American bombers were helping the defense of Singapore by raids on Japanese airfields gave evidence of increasing air strength in that vital area.

As for the warfare at sea, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, declared that every man and every vessel of his command was being used to the fullest extent to take the war to the enemy's front door.

Small formations of flying fortress type bombers raided the Japanese airfields at Kuala Lumpur and Kuantan, on the Malay peninsula, the army said. Poor visibility prevented a check on results of the attacks, but the planes returned safely to their bases.

Another formation, consisting of four heavy bombers, was intercepted by Japanese fighter planes while on the way to attack shipping in the Borneo port of Balikpapan. One of the bombers was lost but nine Japanese planes were shot down in the ensuing battle.

In a statement at Honolulu, Admiral Nimitz said his fleet's assault on Japanese concentrations in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands Sunday followed United States navy tradition of seeking out the enemy to destroy him. He said the attack answered in part the question "Where is the fleet?" That has been uppermost in the minds of the American people for weeks.

The fleet is busy across the vast reaches of the Pacific in areas where it can most effectively harass the enemy, he asserted. The admiral explained that its task was a gigantic one because of the 70,000,000 square-mile expanse of the Pacific, but added:

"I can attest that every ship, every plane, every officer and man of the Pacific fleet, afloat and ashore, is being utilized to the fullest extent, both to safeguard America and to bring the war to the enemy's front door."

Crew Is Honored

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—For saving all the ship's cats when their vessel was torpedoed, the crew of the sunken aircraft carrier Ark Royal was honored today with a silver medal. The award, given by Our Dumb Friends League, was accepted by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, for presentation to the next British warship bearing the name of Ark Royal.

Russians Surge Ahead At Several Vital Spots

Three More Drawn On Jury to Try Edward F. Hicks

Morning Session Brings Fair Results to Fill Box for Local Murder Trial

Speeding up the examination of prospective jurors in the Hicks murder trial this morning three more jurors were added to the panel making a total of four accepted when county court recessed for the noon hour today.

Michael Leehive, 22 East Union street, was the sole juror in the box Monday evening when court recessed but today in quick order Arthur J. Mackey of Ladleton, town of Denning, was selected as juror two. Mr. Mackey is a laborer. As number three came Arnold Lipsett, Walkill mechanic, and John C. Richards of Montela was the man selected for the fourth chair. Mr. Richards is postmaster at Montela.

The second extra panel of 50 jurors was present at the afternoon session and County Judge Conway heard excuses before recommending the selection of the jury.

The three men accepted this morning were selected from about a dozen who were examined.

Edward F. Hicks, 24, former resident of Kingston, was placed on trial Monday afternoon charged with murder, first degree, for the shooting of his wife at Lomontville on September 23, last, just before he turned the gun on himself to inflict what came near being fatal wounds.

District Attorney N. LeVan Haver moved the trial of the murder indictment as the opening case for the February term after County Judge J. Edward Conway had excused jurors who were unable to serve at the term. John M. Cashin and Arthur B. Ewig appear for Hicks.

Before attempting to select a jury Judge Conway directed 50 extra jurors be summoned for today at the opening of court this morning and when all of the remaining jurors on the regular panel had been examined before court recessed last evening a second panel of 50 was drawn for appearance this afternoon.

Out of the original panel of jurors one man, Michael Leehive of this city, proved satisfactory to both the prosecution and the defense.

Prior to the beginning of the selection of the jury Judge Conway said that a juror accepted would be kept in the custody of the sheriff during the trial and consequently would be somewhat inconvenienced but he said this was one of the requirements of citizenship and he asked such jurors to make the best of the situation. He indicated that the case probably would take over a week to try.

Eugene Maier of West Hurley was the first juror summoned for examination and during his examination by District Attorney Haver it developed that Mr. Maier's son was to enter the army within the next few days and he said he had matters to straighten up before the young man left and he would be left alone after his son had entered the army. By agreement Mr. Maier was excused from service.

Juror after juror was summoned from the panel but none except Mr. Leehive proved satisfactory to both sides. Many of the jurors when questioned as to whether they believed in the death penalty, which may be imposed in first degree murder cases, said they did not believe in capital punishment. The jury may in its verdict recommend life imprisonment.

Disagreement Reported

Hicks, it is charged, had a disagreement with his wife who was the former Margery LeBlanc of Schenectady. They later met in Kingston and on the evening of the shooting went for a ride in the Hicks car, taking along their small baby. On a lonely road at Lomontville Hicks pulled off to a cornfield and allegedly shot his wife with a rifle and then turned the gun on himself.

Marcus Bryant, who operates a chicken farm at Lomontville, was driving home about 9:15 that night when he met Mr. and Mrs. William McCauley. They said they had just passed a man with a flashlight who seemed to be injured. Turning back they picked up Hicks and took him back to the scene of the shooting some distance away. The Hicks car was located off the road by its lights. There they

Troops Drag Guns Through Snow at 40 Degrees Below Zero; Leaders Demand Hitler Send 20 Fresh Divisions

By The Associated Press
Russian troops dragging machine-guns and cannon on sledges at 40 degrees Fahrenheit below zero were reported surging forward at several points today in a drive aimed against Smolensk, 210 miles west of Moscow.

At the same time, the British radio said German generals had demanded that Hitler send 20 fresh, picked divisions to the Soviet front immediately, threatening that otherwise it would be "very difficult if not impossible to prevent a general Russian breakthrough."

Soviet dispatches said German air and tank reinforcements arriving on the southern (Ukraine) front were being more than matched by Red Army weapons. British, north Africa troops, thrown back 225 miles in less than two weeks, were reported attacking Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies "wherever found" in western Libya today in an attempt to check the head-long Axis counter-offensive.

A British spokesman, emphasizing the prime necessity of destroying the enemy's forces in desert warfare, declared: "Area is not important. Tanks, men and trucks are." Cairo headquarters indicated that Gen. Rommel's vanguards had reached the vicinity of Sionta, 105 miles northeast of Bengasi and 225 miles northeast of El Agheila, highwater mark of the British January offensive.

While the British said they now were taking the initiative, the German high command gave this version: "In Cirenaica (Libya), the retreating enemy again was brought to battle and dislodged."

Spotted Typhus Is Reported by Nazis

Health Ministry Says 126 Are Ill in Germany

Bern, Switzerland, Feb. 3 (AP)—Spotted typhus has spread from the Eastern front to Germany and the Nazi-occupied areas, the German health ministry announced today, listing 126 cases in Germany and 138 in the occupied eastern countries.

A demarcation line has been established at which persons coming from the east are examined for the lice, a primary typhus carrier. The small village of Pernik, in Bulgaria, was mentioned as one where typhus has broken out.

German press dispatches also reported a number of cases among Bulgarian gypsies. Other dispatches said the German postal chief in Poland had forbidden forwarding of packages and letters from Jews. (Most of Poland's Jews are confined to the cramped quarters of Nazi-ordered ghettos in which any sort of hygienic protection is lacking.)

Though the German health ministry professed the belief that Germany and western Europe are not threatened by typhus, Danish doctors who met at Copenhagen to discuss the disease noted a sharp increase in the number of persons infested with the germ-carrying lice.

Singapore Assault Is Imminent

Japanese Dive-Bombers Set Huge Fires in City in Violent Raids; British Ready

Convoy Is Seen

Chinese Tell of 69 Jap Vessels Seen in Formosa Strait

By Roger D. Greene (Associated Press War Editor)

Australian Army Minister Francis M. Forde declared today that "a big movement by the allies is under way" to counter Japan's sweep in the far Pacific, even as Japanese dive-bombers struck violently at Singapore and a Tokyo military spokesman said that a direct assault on the island stronghold was imminent.

In a broadcast to the Australian imperial force at Singapore, Forde declared that each hour Japan's siege armies were held at bay permitted the massing and deployment of more reinforcements and the accumulation of more weapons.

"It does not need my words to impel you, therefore, to hold on," he said.

Forde did not specify the nature or direction of the big new allied movement.

High-reaching flames, destruction and some casualties were reported in Singapore as Japanese bombers pounded the city with its 750,000 population and outlying sections.

A Chinese army spokesman in Chungking said Japan's bloody losses on the eight-weeks-old conflict were forcing her to draw heavily on manpower reserves and that the bodies of 10,000 slain in the Malaya campaign alone had already arrived at Saigon, Indo-China.

The spokesman reported that a huge Japanese convoy, including 41 warships and 28 other vessels, had been sighted steaming southward in Formosa strait, carrying troops to make up for casualties. These might be headed for Malaya, the Philippines or the Dutch Indies.

Singapore's big defense guns, ranged along the mile-wide Johore strait, thundered intermittently above the scream of air-raid sirens at Japanese troops in the jungles on the opposite shore of the Malay peninsula.

R.A.F. scouting planes reported a heavy movement of Japanese troops southward, indicating that the invaders were massing in full strength on the lower tip of the peninsula before launching a direct assault on the $400,000,000 island fortress.

Gen. Shenton Thomas, governor of the straits settlement, worked in shirt sleeves alongside native coolies, laying hose to battle the flames set by Japanese bombs.

In the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's American-Filipino defenders wrote a heroic new chapter in the battle of Batan peninsula, beating off two fresh Japanese attempts to land on the Batan west coast, on the night of February 2, and successfully counter-attacking the Japanese right flank.

Three lines of enemy trenches were overrun, a war department bulletin said, a large amount of Japanese equipment fell into American hands.

Gen. MacArthur reported that picked shock troops first attempted to land on the west coast, only to be driven off by artillery fire.

"A second and more serious attempt was made at midnight," the communique said. "A large number of barges under naval escort approached the coast. The raid was discovered by a few of our night-flying pursuit planes which immediately attacked the convoy with light bombs and machine-gun fire."

Casualties Are Inflicted
American troops and artillery gunners waited on the beach as the Japanese approached, inflicting bloody casualties with their deadly fire.

"None of the invading group reached shore," Gen. MacArthur reported, adding that in the morning a number of shot-smashed barges, some burning, others adrift, were found along the coast. "Enemy air activity over Singapore has been considerable during the last 24 hours, high level and dive-bomb attacks being carried out and causing some fires," British headquarters reported. "Military casualties have been slight."

Other Japanese warplanes struck for the first time at Java, heart of the Dutch East Indies. (Continued on Page Two)

Rabbi Grossman To Speak in City

Jewish Seminary Will Be Subject of Address

Rabbi Lewis B. Grossman, of the Jewish Center in Mount Vernon, will be the guest speaker to-night at the "Seminary Evening" being sponsored by Congregation Ahavath Israel. He will speak on "The Challenge to American Jewry," discussing the place of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in modern American Jewish life.

Rabbi Grossman is recording secretary of the Rabbinical Assembly, the alumni association of the seminary. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and received his master's degree at Columbia University. Rabbi Grossman is a member of the Synagogue Council of America, chairman of the education committee of the Mt. Vernon branch of the Zionist Organization, a member of the board of the Community Council and of the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

The program will also feature vocal selections by Mrs. Fay Brooks, who will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. G. Rafalowsky. Dr. Nathan Jacobson, rabbi of the congregation, will provide. Admission is free to all, and the entire community is invited. The meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

Two Men Are Held For Theft of Machines

Newark, N. J., Feb. 3 (AP)—Two men are under arrest, Police Detective Captain Frank O'Neill said yesterday, in connection with activities of a ring of sewing machine thieves, who looted factories in Paterson and Morristown, N. J., and New York, Spring Valley and Peekskill, N. Y., of machines valued at $250,000.

The arrested men were booked on charges of receiving and possessing stolen goods as Barney Fishgold, 42, of Newark, and Joseph Singer, 38, of New York. Fishgold was shot in the leg by police when captured January 25, O'Neill said, as he was unloading a sewing machine in front of an East Kinney street address used as a "drop."

Fishgold was termed by O'Neill leader of the gang of "the most vicious and clever burglars I ever came in contact with."

O'Neill said Fishgold conceded the must have been the man who participated in a Brooklyn saloon killing four years ago. He quoted the prisoner as saying he was too drunk to remember details of the night of the killing but "I guess I did it all right."

JAVA-BEHIND THE NEWS

(By The Associated Press)

The Japanese offensive into the South Seas reached Java, richest and most thickly populated of the Dutch East Indies, with the bombing of Soerabaja and surrounding towns today.

Chiefly noted as the site of the capital, Batavia, at the west end of the island, and Soerabaja, near the east end, Java has a population of more than 41,000,000, two and a half times that of the rest of the Dutch Indies.

The rest of the Indies, however, are about 13 times as big as Java, which has an area of 48,000 square miles, about the size of North Carolina.

High volcanic mountains which reach to 12,000 feet make a spiny backbone the 622-mile length of the island. On the slopes and coastal ranges are the rich coffee, tea and rubber plantations, teak and bamboo forests, and fields of cotton, sugar cane and tobacco.

Though tigers, leopards, wild pigs, oxen, peacocks, parrots, crocodiles and cobra abounding in the thick forests and jungles bespeak an untamed wilderness, Java is the most highly developed of the Dutch colonial possessions.

Railroads and motor highways connect the busy cities and towns and reach out among the bamboo-fenced villages. Native Javanese have displayed a high order of industry and skill in agriculture, metal arts, boat building and such technological enterprises as rubber factories which Dutch and British capital has introduced.

Some of the natives build their huts on piling. Rice and fish are their main diet. They are usually peaceful and industrious, unlike some of the wilder tribes in other parts of the archipelago.

Java first was mentioned in European writings by Marco Polo. The Portuguese were the first European peoples to appear on the island, in 1511. The Dutch have been there since 1593, except during a part of the Napoleonic period, when the French and then the British held control. During British rule, Sir Stamford Raffles, founder of Singapore, was the governor.

Batavia, the capital, with its population of nearly 500,000, almost overlooks narrow Soenda Strait, between Java and Sumatra. In Sumatra, good roads approach the strait from the north.

The naval base at Soerabaja has elaborate facilities for the repair and supply of the three cruisers, nine destroyers and 14 submarines of the Dutch fleet. In addition, facilities may have been undertaken to repair or build larger warships.

Madura Island protects the approaches to Soerabaja, much as Long Island protects New York.

United States warplanes twice attacked the enemy convoy yesterday off Balikpapan. Gen. Wavell's command reported, sinking two transports and probably another. Combined Dutch and United States air and naval attacks are now credited with sinking a total of 46 ships in the shark-infested Macassar Strait.

Bombers Blast Singapore
Thirty-six Japanese bombers, flying in two waves, blasted the city area of Singapore this morning, according to Japanese radio reports. Heavily bombarded British positions on the 35-mile front along the north shore of the island.

A Rome radio broadcast, quoting Tokyo dispatches, asserted Japanese artillery had silenced British naval guns at one point and that the great Singapore naval base and docks had been hard-hit by shelling.

With American flying fortress bombers now helping in the defense of Singapore, smashing at Japanese airfields on the Malay peninsula, the atmosphere in the beleaguered island citadel was far from pessimistic.

"There are a lot of itching fingers on rifles and machine-guns," a British officer said quietly, while British, Australian and Indian troops, refreshed by respite after nearly two months of bloody jungle fighting, kept watch for the opening Japanese attack.

Military experts expressed belief that a parachute attack or a night thrust by small boat crews across the mile-wide Johore Strait would open Japan's offensive, regarding a simple state of siege as foreign to Japanese strategy.

Concentration of the reinforced defenders within a shoreline of little more than 70 miles was cited by the British in a forecast that either aerial or maritime infiltration tactics against the gun-girt stronghold would fail.

Evidence of increasing air strength in the Singapore area came from a U. S. army report that small formations of flying fortress type bombers had raided the Japanese air fields at Kuala Lumpur and Kuantan. Low visibility prevented accurate assessment of the damage. All returned to their bases.

In another theatre of the southwest Pacific four heavy U. S. bombers assigned to raid Japanese shipping in the Borneo port of Balikpapan were set upon by Japanese fighters. Nine Japanese planes were shot down against a loss of one of the bombers, the army communiqué said.

These developments—following the naval assault upon Japanese concentrations in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands Sunday—came with a statement by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, that all its men, planes and ships were being fully utilized to take the war "to the enemy's front door."

What It Means

By HERMAN ALLEN
If you're an average American, you ate 74 pounds of sugar last year, about 1 1/2 pounds a week. To you, sugar rationing means first of all that the shopper in your home will be able to buy less than two-thirds of that for your year.

What will this mean to the average American's innards? Will he get enough to keep healthy? There's a twinkle-eyed little lady in the Department of Agriculture's Home Economics Bureau who has the answer.

"Why," she chuckled, "most of us eat a lot more sugar than we need anyway. We just eat it because we like our coffee or our strawberries better that way. Look here!"

What You Need
She reached in her desk and pulled out a table that the bureau had prepared. It shows how much sugar is needed a week by men and women and children of various ages. Here it is:

Signs Would Show Dirty Weather Is Ahead in Pacific

Two more Japanese transports, and probably sent a third to the bottom, in an attack in Macassar Strait off Borneo. That's a line contribution to the allied defense.

Singapore's great need right now is a fleet of fighter planes to stand off the Jap bombers which are dumping mountains of explosives on the island and will be used with devastating effect when the Japanese attempt a landing.

And fighter reinforcements are the most difficult to move to Singapore quickly, because they can't be flown the long distance and must be transported either by aircraft carriers or in sections on cargo steamers. That takes time.

While the Singapore battle is swelling to a climax, the Japanese are pressing down on Java and Sumatra from their air bases on Borneo. An attempt at actual invasion of these chief Dutch possessions may come soon.

Burma Is Danger Spot
Another dangerous spot for the allies is Burma. The Japanese are pushing persistently here, trying to sever the Rangoon railway which runs to China's Burma Road. As you know, loss of the use of that road would be a major catastrophe for the allies, for it is the only feasible communication the Chinese have with the outside world.

In the European theatre the picture is brighter for the allies. The Russian offensive continues to develop favorably, although there has been a stiffening of the German resistance.

I am getting a lot of questions about the position in Libya. Well, despite the rapidity with which the British advance was turned into a retreat because of the brilliant and daring generalship of Field Marshal General Rommel after he had received reinforcements, nothing of a decisive nature has occurred. As a matter of fact the boundless open spaces of the desert lend themselves to this kind of hide-and-seek warfare, because there is no defense against an enemy encircling movement excepting overwhelming superiority of forces, especially the fast-moving mechanical equipment. A British column in Cairo today summed the position up very well thus:

"We've always known there's little point in desert conquest unless you take as a prime problem the urgent necessity of destroying the enemy's forces. Area is not important. Tanks, men and trucks are."

That long has been accepted by military experts as true. There is no other type of campaigning like that on the desert. The sea-sawing doesn't matter so much.

Book Lists Descendants Of Early Ulster Resident
A book which should be of interest to many persons in Ulster county, but recently printed, is "The Descendants of Jacob Longyear of Ulster County, N. Y." The book, which contains over 400 pages of history and genealogy, was compiled and published by Edmund J. Longyear of Los Angeles, Cal., who has made several trips to this city and is well known in Kingston and throughout Ulster county.

The book lists 4,309 names of descendants of Jacob Longyear, who settled in Ulster county prior to October 22, 1752, on which date, according to the records of the Old Dutch Church, his daughter, Barbara, was baptized in the church. Of the 4,309 names listed a large percentage are Ulster county people. Only 481 of those listed were born in Ulster county.

In his introduction to the book the author mentions Miss Mary Longyear, formerly of Phenicia, now of Fargo, N. D., and Hiram F. Whitney of 137 Washington avenue, Kingston, as among those who rendered valuable assistance in compiling the volume.

Hollywood Homecomings
Hollywood, Feb. 3 (AP)—Judy Garland came home to mother and Mrs. Gertrude Keisler came home to daughter Hedy LaMar yesterday. Judy was met by a physician and an ambulance. She developed a throat infection on an entertainment tour of army camps. Mrs. Keisler was met with a kiss. Hedy hadn't seen her mother, who'd been in London, in five years.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Injury to Insult
New York — Two gunmen robbed Berthold D'Alessandro of $7 in Central Park and then shot him in the right foot so he couldn't chase them.

Dynasty
Charleston, S. C. — Coroner John P. Devaux was offered a new office in the county court house but he declined it.
He wanted to stay in the same building where his grandfather, great-grandfather and great-great-grandfather held office. They were coroners, too.

Accommodating
Arkansas City, Kas. — Missouri traffic timetables call for no stops at the Vinton schoolhouse, in eastern Cowley county.

But last week, Engineer A. C. Clough of Coffeyville brought his train to a grinding halt and hurriedly backed up to the little school, whistle screaming.

Teachers and pupils, aroused by the frantic tooting, fled out to find the schoolhouse roof ablaze. The trainmen helped put out the flames. The loss was less than $50.

Meanie
Huntington Park, Calif. — War has produced a meanest swindler, too.
Newsboy Johnny Mc Cullough, 14, told police a stranger offered him a job selling blackout flashlights but disappeared after collecting $5 in advance.

Sporting, What?
Denver — A much-traveled initial-carver snapped his knife shut and put it in his pocket when he entered the Colorado state house.

Pridefully, he told the state information department by letter that he had carved his initials in state capitols "all through the country, but the Colorado capitol is so well kept that I couldn't bear to scratch it."

Gets His Men
Kansas City — Sheriff Granville Richart gave his star deputy a special assignment last week. He was to pick up a couple of characters for questioning in the theft of an automobile.

Relentlessly and diligently, Deputy Jack Brice applied himself to the search. He was rewarded yesterday, finding both suspects—in the county jail.

They'd been there some time serving 60-day sentences for petty larceny.

Business Room
Aurora, Ill. — A steady stream of motorists rolled into Ed Wester's undarkened filling station after the new voluntary 7 p. m. gasoline curfew, handed him $20 bills and ordered:

"Test the battery, check the tires, clean the windshield and one gallon of gas please."

Wester, who had to shut up early when his change ran out, said his customers were his curfew-complying competitors.

Trend of the Times
Seattle — The classified ad columns of a Seattle newspaper today carried these:

Will trade dresser, bed, wicker settee for 6.00 x 16 tires.

Will exchange furniture for labor, digging bombproof shelter.

Will exchange lady's fur coat, acetylene welding outfit. Will accept horse.

Industrial Home of Kingston Submits Its Annual Reports

ty have been most pleasant and constructive; developing a greater correlation in the work of the different branches of Child Welfare.

The necessity of an emergency shelter for children has been brought to our notice in the last year. The Home has been fortunate in being able to care for these cases when capacity allowed.

We thank our courtesy staff of physicians and dentists for their time and services so generously given to all of our children, and also the City Laboratory, Kingston, Benedictine and Tuberculosis Hospitals for their assistance.

The faculty of No. 5 School has been understanding and cooperative in accepting our children and in helping them to become a part of the community, which is so important in their general education.

In our extended program, which includes the adolescent child, the boy's department with varying ages from 7 to 15 years, benefited during the summer months from the leadership and supervision of a playground director, employed for that purpose.

The T. T. T. Class of the St. James Church gave the children a supper picnic on the Home grounds in July, which was greatly enjoyed. For this and for the many kindnesses and aid through the year, we are truly grateful.

Our church affiliations have a definite need in the lives of our children. We wish to thank the Rev. Mr. Damstra and the members of the Church of the Comforter for their interest and religious guidance. Four children were baptized this year, and many others became members of the various organizations of the church.

Never in its long history of service to the community has the Industrial Home faced a period when it is so critically important to succeed in which it is dedicated, than now.

It is therefore particularly gratifying to be assured of the continued interest of the Shriner's Organization, as well as the substantial financial aid derived from the proceeds of the "Shriner's" Ball, an outstanding social event which has been held for the benefit of the Industrial Home for the past 30 years.

Christmas day would not have been complete or nearly so happy, if the children's faithful friends, the Masons had not come as usual, to the "Home" on Christmas morning laden with their gifts for each child. This delightful custom has been carried on for 19 consecutive years, and the children look forward to this happy event with pleasure, when they join the Masons in carol singing and present an original Christmas play for their entertainment.

This year the Lions Club contributed to the education and enjoyment of the children by arranging to take them, as their guests, to the lecture by Admiral Byrd.

For the 38th year the Binnewater Ice Co. has serviced the "Home" with ice. For this generous contribution we are sincerely thankful.

The members of the Board join me in expressing our appreciation to the Trustees of the "Home" for the investment counsel they have given us during the year, and to A. D. Pardee for his advice concerning our insurance policies.

I have touched only briefly on the work of some of our committees, which will be taken up in detail later, but I want to compliment the Finance Committee for their accomplishment in setting up a working budget. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the Board members for their enthusiasm and interest, the officers and chairmen for their constructive cooperation.

To Mrs. Scholtz, our superintendent, we extend our sincere gratitude for her untiring efforts and inspiring achievements, so well demonstrated by the friendly atmosphere of the "Home."

In closing, may I express our appreciation of the interest and time contributed by the volunteers and the many friends and organizations who have done so much toward making our children's lives complete.

Respectfully submitted,
BARBARA H. RODIE

Superintendent's Report
Our Children

Sixty-five years have passed since we opened the doors to homeless children. After years of service to the cause of childhood, today we are still at the ramparts, still reaching out to children who are storm-tossed and frightened by what life has dealt them.

Some of our "first" children are receiving old age pensions and our youngest is two years old. Day by day letters arrive from our former charges asking for a birth certificate or a paper of identification which must prove the holder an American citizen before he can enter defense work, army or navy. Others need help to prove their age. They tell us that they were six or seven years old when they entered the "Home" in 1877. They now want to prove that they have reached seventy and that they are in line for old age assistance and we usually find their names in our old records and on the same faded pages we find reports of fears and worries and anxieties such as we are facing today. The path behind us was hard and rough and all uphill and ahead of us we see problems challenging all our fortitude and experience.

Life is never monotonous in our up and coming family. We started the year with 35 children. Out of a total of 85 applications, we added 24 to our group. This small percentage of admissions is due primarily to lack of space. Eighteen children were discharged. This comparatively large turnover can be accounted for by the necessity of making other plans for a number of children, many of whom had outgrown the services of this Home, and others were emotionally maladjusted.

Seven of these children were able to return to their parents or relatives and 11 were transferred to foster homes. At the end of 1941 we had 42 children under care.

Throughout the year, 44 children were supported in part by public funds, supplemented by our budget. Twelve had parents who assisted in their support, and three were cared for solely by the Home.

Further analysis of the social background of our children shows only one to be a full orphan, 30 are half orphans, 20 have both parents living, but their homes broken by illness, divorce or separation and eight whose parents' whereabouts are unknown. Thirty-one of our 42 children are brothers and sisters. We contribute to a valuable extent also in caring for children whose behavior is of a nature which can be helped by group living.

Our Daily Bread
In spite of a larger family and in spite of higher prices, we have succeeded in keeping up a high dietary standard without endangering the budget. The generous help of our many friends brought heaps of nourishing food to the house. Careful buying and storing, elimination of waste and loyal cooperation were contributing factors. Little luxuries and trimmings had to be given up, but our youngsters still have their daily fresh fruit and vegetables. Grade A butter and eggs, and a daily quart of Guernsey milk for every child.

Our Black Outs
Good food, light, air, rest and exercise are not enough to keep our growing children safe in a modern house. To all this we have had to add "black outs" and the practice of preparing for them. Now we are wondering how we can maintain a happy feeling of security and unconcern without which childhood can never be happy or normal.

When the large gong announces an air raid alarm practice in our house, different children instantly perform assigned jobs. They lower shades, extinguish lights, close all doors, assist the nursery children and take assigned places in windowless halls on the second floor. The two and three year olds are huddled into the safest corners. They like it. It is fun and little Billy said the other day, "Gee whiz—I must remember that! Someday when my boys have to learn about all this in school, I can tell them I was alive when it all happened!" We thank thee, little man, for this vision. It revives our courage. We must remember that after all we will still carry on when little Billy has grown into a fine strong man, talking to his sons in his own home, in a peaceful land.

Respectfully submitted,
MARGARET SCHOLTZ

Medical Report, 1941
Industrial Home
Kingston, N. Y.

It is indeed gratifying to me as I am sure it will be to the members of the Board of the Industrial Home that the year 1941 has come to a close without the appearance of any serious medical problems. The usual run of complaints and infections have occurred but they are, of course, to be expected among any children and when a large group is housed under one roof, it is inevitable that mild epidemics come and go with an almost certain regularity.

The surgical side of the illness picture is very limited. One appendectomy, five tonsillectomies, and one surgical correction to a scar on a child's chin.

The following list is interesting because it is so similar to that of other years, presenting so few problems to the medical and house staff.

8 mumps
10 colds
3 sore throats
1 rheumatic fever
1 bronchitis
14 impetigo
4 swollen glands
11 diarrhea
3 athlete's foot
3 poison ivy
116 tests made at City Lab.
74 doctors' visits to Home
1 sprained hip
1 sprained ankle
5 glasses repaired
4 new glasses
1 basal metabolism test
2 cystoscope examinations
3 X-rays at T.B. Hospital
9 tests at mental hygiene clinic
35 children's feet examined
19 visits to oculists
24 Wassermann tests, all negative
81 visits to doctors' offices

With the exception of the case of rheumatic fever all of the above could be easily dealt with and the ill children restored to their normal activities within a short space of time. The careful isolation and preventive measures taken by the superintendent and her associates may be largely responsible for the low illness record. The health welfare of the children is under constant surveillance by the house staff and a doctor is called whenever necessary.

Dr. G. W. Sumner is consulted when foot corrections are needed and Dr. Harry LeFever and Dr. S. Stern are untiring in checking and re-checking the children's eyes and in providing proper glasses.

May I welcome Dr. Michael Diacovo to the medical staff and thank Doctors Bush, Cranston, Krom, Larkin, LeFever, Lehner, Meyers, Moseley, Olivet, Ritchie, Sanford, Silk, Wilson, VanGaasbeck, Fassett, Mathers, Holcomb for their conscientious and invaluable assistance.

Respectfully submitted,
HERBERT B. JOHNSON, M.D.

Dental Report, 1941
Industrial Home
Kingston, N. Y.

Teeth filled 52
Teeth extracted 10
Teeth cleaned 12
Teeth X-rayed 2
Visits to offices 64
Dentists' visits to home for examination of teeth 2

Considering the number of children cared for and their age the necessary amount of dental work has been small. Of considerable interest is the fact that a large percentage of the work has been done in the months of children recently admitted to the Home.

This points to a favorable environment for the developing and maintaining of mouth health.

Also, I wish to express my deepest appreciation to the other members of the dental staff with whom it has been a great privilege and pleasure to work.

Respectfully submitted,
A. M. CRAGIN, D.D.S.

Children's Committee
The annual report of the children's committee follows:

The Children's committee of the Industrial Home has much good work to report. Each month two members of the Board have given special attention to the young people, so that all board members have become better acquainted with the individual children. An improved play yard and the new lockers for toys and treasures have added to the children's feeling of satisfaction in having a place of their own.

The outstanding event of the year was "open house" held on a beautiful September day when several hundred friends visited and inspected the grounds and buildings. The children entertained with an Indian play, a group of songs and a rhythm band, members of the Board conducted tours of inspection and refreshments were served.

Volunteer Workers
The garden under the supervision of the Rev. Stephen W. Ryder of Flatbush Reformed Church was a joy to behold and in spite of dry weather the boys harvested a bounteous crop. Manure, plowing and seeds were all donated.

The library group under the able direction of M. S. Leon Chambers has had a successful year and the children look forward to Friday as book night.

Art classes under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy O'Meara Windlingstad, singing lessons by Mrs. Poe and piano lessons by Miss Cooper have meant much in entertainment and musical instruction.

The rhythm band has been conducted by Miss Frisigh in her time off as nursery supervisor; also the girls' gym class by our secretary, Miss Flaherty in her time off duty.

A paid boys' councilor was tried out as an experiment this past summer and proved well worth the expense as the boys were able to play baseball and take supervised hikes to parks and playgrounds and work off superabundant energy in the wide open spaces.

The exhibit at the Y. M. C. A. Hobby Show of articles made by the children of the Home under the able direction of Mrs. William McVey was an outstanding success.

Miss Ann McCullough gave an evening of help in school work problems.

The Rev. Russell Damstra of the Church of the Comforter has almost all of our children in church, Sunday School, Junior choir and Christian Endeavor.

A. J. Boyd, superintendent of School No. 5 has valiantly faced our school problems with us and has been an understanding advisor.

Some of our girls have enjoyed the new Y. W. C. A. camp at High Woods. Judging from the letters the demand this summer will exceed the accommodations.

The "Active Friends" who individually sponsor one or more of our children, taking care of their needs either in clothing or some special necessity which is not on the regular budget, have done yeoman duty this year. Shopping parties are highlights in the children's year when his or her "Active Friends" go shopping and explore for shoes, clothes, etc. The churches are especially helpful in this work.

The girls have practical experience in cooking suppers on the cook's day off; picnics in the play-house are events and everyone has a job.

With many thanks to the members of the children's committee and all volunteers,

Respectfully submitted,
MARGARET C. LEWIS,
Chairman, Children's Com.

Surrender at Last

Rochester, Ind. — Daylight saving time finally won out with Fulton county commissioners, but the Japanese had to be credited with an assist.

Summer has gone on fast time. Summer after summer, the commissioners have just as consistently refused to set the court house clock ahead, because farmers asked them not to.

Yesterday they voted to turn the clock up at 2 a. m. next Monday, when the whole nation adopts war time.

FINDING OURSELVES

It may seem strange to link happiness with war; but perhaps we Americans are really happier now than we were before the tragedy reached us. Not outwardly, but deep inside.

The gaiety which remained in this country until the Pearl Harbor tragedy was superficial. We were singing and cavorting around, spending our money and priding ourselves on our glorious isolation when we were really uncertain and uneasy. Even while we told ourselves that we could sit tight and let the world go to hell, we doubted it. We were divided in our souls and there is no real happiness in such division.

But the big blow came, and we staggered and then rose to meet it. In a week, almost in a day, we readjusted our thinking, our feeling, our attitude toward the times. We found ourselves not only rising up to carry our own part of the world's tragic burdens. We were also reaching out to uphold our foreign friends, and taking on immense responsibility for poor "orphan humanity" in its biggest trouble. The change in our attitude was not only spontaneous and quick but almost unconscious. We're like that.

And since we took this hard road and assumed these big burdens, all working as one team in the biggest job of our national life, and too busy to think of ourselves, of course we're happy in our souls! Unity in a great cause always makes people happy, in spite of toil and sweat and blood and tears.

ONE COUNTRY SAFE

A military map of the world shows few countries still neutral and uninvaded. Perhaps the one most likely to keep its neutrality is Nepal.

Lying northeast of India in the highest part of the Himalayas, with Mount Everest the loftiest but by no means the only one of its gigantic peaks, Nepal is pretty much proof against blitzkriegs. If Hitler has thought Switzerland too hard a nut worth cracking, what would he think of Nepal?

Not content with unparalleled natural defenses, Nepal guards against its only danger, treachery. To be sure that it admits no fifth columnists, it admits practically no one at all. As far back as the thirteenth century, the famous traveler Marco Polo called Nepal "A country little frequented by strangers, whose visits the king discourages." An Everest expedition may on occasion be admitted, but almost no one else. Most Americans know it only from cross-word puzzles.

Other countries may in the present stress of war wish that they had imitated Nepal. Our own country, however, has gained so much from the talents of our foreign-born citizens that, no matter how angry we may feel now, we will probably refuse to follow Nepal's example.

STAMP FANS

Americans have given twenty million dollars to the Axis powers. That is the startling news from Washington, where the sale of enemy stamps is now forbidden. Our ardent collectors, it seems, have been buying the issues, frequently changed, of these stamps, thereby turning over cash much needed by Germany and Company.

"FINDINGS"

We are learning the importance of little things. Shoe eyelets, tacks and fasteners, for example. Ordinarily we use them without paying any attention to them. They are too petty to take seriously.

But from such small bits of brass in American shoes, we could make a million shell cases. And these shells might win a great battle. So we're going to give the brass to the munitions factories. And the shoes will be fastened just the same. We'll use cheaper and less important metal for it.

Likewise men will probably be able to worry along without vests. Also without cuffs on their trousers. They may even sacrifice the useless buttons on what were formerly coat cuffs—apparently a curious hold-over from ages when the cuffs really buttoned over the wrists. Metal collar buttons, too, are unnecessary.

It's surprising how many little things we can do without, and not notice the lack of after a few days or weeks. The lives of most of us have been cluttered too much with gew-gaws and gadgets of a hundred kinds.

Russian stubbornness is no new feature. Witness the brave words with which Czar Alexander I defied Napoleon: "I know that I am no general, and I have no captains who are your equal; but peace will not be made on my soil."

People who consider names like Reginald and Algernon effeminate are invited to observe that the hard-boiled General Wavell is named Archibald Percival.

As for price control, how about the control accomplished by consumers who keep their heads and don't stampede to buy everything at once?

The formula for dealing with spies is one that he-men used to advocate for wives: "Treat 'em rough and tell 'em nothin'."

A few more dozen Jap warships smashed and a few more hundred troop ships sunk, and we can turn back to finish Hitler.

What, you don't like the price control bill, either? Well, that seems to make it unanimous.

It's 40 below in Russia, and lower than that in the Nazi invaders' souls.

Those Russian Reds bucking the snow-drifts are red-blooded, anyway.

It's a rich haul these days for Davy Jones.

FITTING HEARING AIDS

There was a time when the fitting of glasses for defective eyesight was performed by physicians who were eye specialists, or by non-physicians—optometrists—who had received some training in measuring eyesight and fitting glasses to bring the eyesight up or nearly up to normal.

Today, most cases are fitted by optometrists who have qualified themselves for this work by a specified course of study, have received the title, Doctor of Optics, and have been officially licensed to practice their profession, just as physicians are.

As hearing aids can help the hard of hearing just as glasses can help those with poor eyesight, the need has arisen for properly trained or qualified audiometrists—those who can measure the amount and kind of defective hearing present in any case and prescribe the proper hearing aid.

In the New York State Journal of Medicine, Drs. T. H. Halsted and F. M. Grossman, state: "The fitting of hard-of-hearing patients can be properly done only by specifically trained persons." So far no state (or province) has passed a law to this effect but steps are being taken to secure the passage of these laws.

An editorial in Clinical Medicine refers to an article in the Volta Review in which an outline of a proposed two-year course of study in audiology was published, including courses in physics, communication, engineering, vacuum-tube amplification, the testing and use of the audiometer, psychology, the mechanism of hearing, phonetics, and other subjects.

There is no question but that the manufacturers of hearing aids would welcome some uniform law of this kind as at present most hearing aids will help the hard of hearing if properly fitted and adjusted. It is because the work of fitting and adjusting is at present in the hands of salesmen, some of whom are well qualified in this work and others who are not, that the hard of hearing are not getting that service that could be obtained from the excellent hearing aids now available.

Let us hope that this new profession of audiometry will soon be on the same footing as optometry.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Feb. 3, 1922.—Kingston residents used 1,642,500,000 gallons of water during 1921, according to records of the water department.

Carl M. Pierson was called to New Haven, Conn., by the death of his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer I. Goodsell celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Thomas O'Brien died in her home at Morgan Hill, town of Hurley.

George Teller of Washington avenue, died, aged 74 years.

Feb. 2, 1932.—Kingston's Industrial Exposition opened in the state armory on Broadway.

Lyman T. Schoolmeyer of this city awarded general contract to complete the new state armory on Manor avenue.

Alonso Mowell died in his home in Creek Locks. There were 1,708 students registered in Kingston High School, which surpassed all previous records.

William Ver Kaik of Passaic, N. J., and Miss Mary Faye of Cedar street, married here.

Poughkeepsie defeated Kingston High School at basketball by a score of 26 to 24.

THE TIME IS NOW

Less than 24 hours after Japan struck in the Pacific the American Red Cross launched a War Fund Campaign for $50,000,000. In making the initial appeal, Chairman Norman H. Davis said, "There are millions of our citizens who desire today to demonstrate their will to victory over the enemy. Not all can be in the armed forces, but all can volunteer their dollars to arm the Red Cross to be their representative at the scene of battle and distress." Large contributions have been received from large corporations, but if the National Fund is to go over the top and in particular if Ulster county is to go over the top, every man and woman must give something, for it is by the multitude of small gifts that a gigantic total is reached. Help Ulster county to take its proper place among the counties of the state and among the states of the Union.

READY FOR THE TAXIDERMIST

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

It was in November, 1923, that the Common Council voted to appropriate the sum of $1,000 to be used in fitting up a room on the lower floor of the city hall as a gymnasium for the use of the members of the police force.

For some time the policemen had been using the gym at the local Y. M. C. A., once a week, but some of the men believed that better results would be obtained physically if they had their own gym and could use it daily.

As I recall it the gym in the city hall came into existence and was used for a while and today is but a memory of the past with the older members of the department. If memory serves me right Sergeant Charles Phinney, now chief of the department, was the champion wrestler of the force.

On December 10, 1923, the Ulster County Bible Society held its 107th annual meeting in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church at which time Mayor Palmer Canfield was re-elected president. Frank R. Powley, widely known banker and coal dealer, as vice-president. The Rev. Henry Smith of Rifton was re-elected secretary with Luther S. Decker of this city as associate secretary, and A. D. Rose as treasurer.

All of the men elected officers at that annual meeting have since died. Mr. Powley was a charter member of the Mendelssohn Club and for years president of the Kingston Coal Company, while A. D. Rose was the founder of the Rose grocery on Franklin street, and active in the civic, religious and political life of Kingston, serving for some years as a member of the water board.

Mr. Decker was for years employed in the furniture house of Stock & Cordts on lower Broadway, and was active in the Christian Endeavor movement in Ulster county.

Mayor Canfield was the first man ever to serve Kingston as its head for four terms, while the Rev. Mr. Smith had been serving as secretary of the Bible Society for many years.

Andrew N. Barnes died in his home on Albany avenue on December 11, 1923, aged 74 years. He was a widely known business man of Kingston and for years was a member of the firm of Gregory & Barnes, furniture dealers on Broadway at Van Buren street. He retired from active business in 1912. For years he was active in the Wurts Street Baptist Church.

You can easily clean silverware—especially the encrusted kind—with a sponge dipped in silver polish. Rinse off the silver with hot water and then wash in hot suds and wipe at once with a soft cloth. The silver will be "as bright as new." Wash and dry the sponge after each using.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington.—In spite of all the palaver over the Justice Roberts report on responsibility for the Pearl Harbor episode, one of the most significant phases of the report has been very lightly touched upon, namely:

If counter-espionage activities of the United States hadn't been hog-tied and hobbled by restrictions in the Federal Communications Act there might well never have been any catastrophe at Pearl Harbor, no matter how derelict in duties were the commanders of the Army and Navy.

Let's examine the facts: (1)—Although it was considered positive by our counter-espionage agents there that Japanese consuls and other spies were sending information in code messages by commercial cable and wireless to Tokyo, the law forbade the Federal Bureau of Investigation or Army or Navy Intelligence from obtaining copies of these messages without a court order. To have obtained a court order would have been to bring our own efforts into the open and of course kill the goose that was laying those secret eggs. Attempts to circumvent that law met a legal stone wall.

(2)—Although telephone communications between Japan and Hawaii were maintained until AFTER the first blows were struck, it was impossible for the FBI, Army or Navy to tap the wires and make records of the many long distance calls that shuttled back and forth between Tokyo and Honolulu right up to the morning of December 7. Why? Because Congress last summer refused to pass a law to permit wire-tapping even in cases of counter-espionage. I refused to pass it in spite of recommendations from the White House, the Army, Navy and Department of Justice.

As a matter of fact, one such telephone message was intercepted about 24 hours before the first bombs fell. The conversation was about flowers, the beautiful weather and points of interest around the islands. Now, not even the most esthetic Japs would be paying long distance tolls for a discourse so trivial as that. It probably was one of the hundreds of conversations that passed in code over public wires, with nobody able to do anything about it.

There is a third phase of this counter-espionage activity that has nothing to do with the communications act. That is that there were known to be more than 200 Japanese consular agents in Hawaii and the Roberts report leaves no doubt that these made up an army of spies. The report also makes it clear that although other counter-espionage agents wished to force these agents to register in compliance with the law passed for that very purpose, or arrest them, the Army command in Hawaii objected for fear of antagonizing the civilian Japanese population in the islands and precipitating trouble from Tokyo.

This then was the situation which led the Roberts report to conclude in effect that if there were any military or naval secrets in the islands that the Japanese didn't have and make use of in that vital zero hour on the morning of Dec. 7, it would be hard to discover what they were.

Our counter-espionage set-up was this: In 1936, the FBI opened its first office in Hawaii, but was concerned then only with civilian matters. In 1938, the budget bureau uncovered some technicalities and the office had to be closed for lack of funds. It was reopened in 1939. In 1940, President Roosevelt ordered the FBI to take over counter-espionage and sabotage investigations but WITH complete cooperation with Army and Navy Intelligence. That is the way they were working in the islands in December, 1941, and there is NO indication in the published report that these agencies didn't do all that they could considering they were hamstrung by laws preventing access to their most important sources of information.

In the House of Representatives the other day, Rep. Emanuel Celler, of Brooklyn, taking more cognizance of this phase of the Roberts report than most did, introduced a bill to permit these agencies to tap wires and cables in counter-espionage cases.

DEDUCTIONS FOR PROFESSIONAL EXPENSES

A professional man may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the pursuit of his profession. These include the cost of supplies used in his practice, office rent, cost of light, water, fuel, and telephone in his office, the hire of office assistants, and expenses paid in the operation and repair of an automobile, based upon the proportion of time it is used for professional purposes.

Many physicians use their residences both as their offices and their homes. In such instance the physician may deduct as a business expense the rental value of the rooms occupied for office purposes if he actually pays rent, and also the cost of light and heat furnished these rooms. Also, he may deduct a portion of the wages paid domestic servants whose time is partly occupied in caring for the rooms. Membership dues in professional societies are deductible. Physicians and dentists who keep in their waiting rooms current magazines and newspapers for the benefit of their patients may deduct this item as a business expense. The cost of professional journals for the taxpayer's own use is also a deductible item.

The cost of technical books is not a deductible item, being a capital expenditure, but a proportionate amount for each year's depreciation of the books may be deducted. Depreciation may also be taken on office furniture and equipment. Insurance premiums on office or other professional equipment and liability insurance may be deducted. A premium paid for automobile liability insurance should be apportioned and that part of the premium attributable to business may be deducted as a business expense.

What Value Was Rio Pact? Answer: Imagine Nazis Based In Latin American Countries
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, February 3.—Over-shadowed perhaps by the more spectacular news from the Far East, the achievement at Rio de Janeiro whereby 21 American Republics acted in union against the Axis can best be measured by imagining the state of affairs the United States would be in today if the Nazis had bases in Brazil and in the countries immediately surrounding the Panama Canal.

The return of Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, has not been heralded as the triumph it really is. Nor has attention been given to the year and a half of work done by Nelson Rockefeller and his office of inter-American affairs in cultivating the ground on which the latest evidence of Pan-American solidarity could be so firmly based.

Deeper, however, than the accomplishments of recent months is the spirit of the good neighbor policy itself which has been persistently acclaimed by President Roosevelt and which will rank as one of the most constructive policies in the history of America's external relations.

Again and again through past administrations the presidents and secretaries of state have striven to impress on the Central and South American countries the sincerity of purpose of the United States but it has remained for the Roosevelt administration to reach the goal. For today Latin America trusts the United States to a greater extent than ever has been believed possible among 20 sovereign nations of differing aspirations and interests.

The reason for the success of the policy is that the American government has at last learned that the nations to the south of us are independent in spirit and can neither be patronized nor bamboozled and that concrete measures of friendship are recognized as such when they are disinterestedly presented.

While Secretary Hull and the entire department of state have given Latin America a great deal of attention in the last several years, it is a fact that economic and cultural relations had inevitably been neglected in the rush of diplomatic business. Hence President Roosevelt was wise in setting aside a separate institution of the government here to coordinate all commercial and cultural relations with Central and South America. In placing Nelson Rockefeller in charge of it he chose a young man who had already spent considerable time in Pan-American relationships of a cultural as well as economic nature and whose enthusiasm for the nations to the south of us was infectious.

The cooperation of Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, and Warren Pierson, the head of the Export-Import Bank, and the development of a system of priorities and allocations through the board of economic warfare, of which Vice President Wallace is head, were all factors in laying the foundation for the progress made at Rio last month.

Latin America has felt the pinch of the world-wide economic situation. Shipping is scarce. Certain raw materials and manufactured goods from the United States are vital to the preservation of the economic equilibrium of most of the Pan American countries. This was the kind of thing which if mishandled could have produced ill-feeling or apathy when it became necessary to secure uniform action in breaking with the Axis.

Once diplomatic relations are severed, fifth columnists can be weeded out, shorelines can be patrolled to prevent submarine bases from being established and generally America's defense can be promoted. One needs only to look at the map to realize what Japan could do on the west coast and what Germany could do on the south Atlantic if either nation had air or submarine bases in this hemisphere. Messrs. Welles and Rockefeller and the entire Washington mechanism which has been specializing in Pan-American relations had as much to do with national defense in what they have painstakingly labored to accomplish these last eighteen months as if they had been part of our military and naval forces themselves.

What is more important, however, is that a foundation has been laid on which a permanent policy can be superimposed. The steps which the United States has taken and which the countries to the south of us have reciprocally taken will live long in the memories of all the peoples in this hemisphere. It is the kind of constructive relationship that a future armistice in this war, instead of suspending, may well build further because it is a rare example of the kind of international cooperation that can be developed through the processes of reason and mutual trust. It is a milestone in American history.

HURLEY

Hurley, Feb. 2.—An interested and appreciative audience of more than 100 heard Elissa Landi Friday evening, give a lecture in which she demonstrated the difference between stage and screen acting. Miss Landi was presented with a basket of flowers by Lynn and Lowell Brooks. The Parent-Teacher Association wishes to thank everyone who in any way helped to make the evening's entertainment such a success.

The community supper for the benefit of the special Red Cross drive, which was held recently by the Ladies' Aid, was such a financial success that plans are being made to hold another one some time this month. At these suppers each family is asked to bring some article of food toward the supper. After the supper a free-will offering is taken which is donated for the Red Cross. At the last supper $29 was collected.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wagner entertained for friends on Friday evening after the lecture by Miss Landi. After an enjoyable evening a supper was served. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Otis Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Myer.

A musical program for the benefit of the Red Cross is being planned and rehearsed. Mrs. Gordon Burhans is in charge of the directing.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held at the school. Entertainment for Founders' Day, will be given and a party held. All members are asked to come and help to make the evening an enjoyable one.

The weekly sewing bee, with a luncheon at noon, will be held by the ladies as usual Thursday, in the church.

A list of the boys from this town who are in the Army and Navy is being made and the list placed in the church hall.

On February 22 the Sunday school will contribute their share toward the Red Cross. A special program will be given by the children at this time.

Red Cross War Fund

A substantial contribution toward the $45,000 American Red Cross War Fund to be raised by the Ulster County Committee will help keep the fighting men healthy, happy and efficient.

Comedies Illustrate Topic

At Sorosis Meeting Yesterday

"Laughter for Tears" was the topic at Sorosis Club yesterday as the members met at the home of Mrs. Harry Perley, Mountain view avenue. Several of the comedies of George Kelly, Philip Barry, Marc Connelly, and Rachel Crothers were used for illustration of the subject.

Mrs. R. Gardner Burns reviewed the paper for the day by reading the most humorous parts of the plays considered. "Show Off" by George Kelly follows the suggestion of its title in telling the story of a young man, "Holiday" by Philip Barry is the tale of two sisters both in love with the same man and is related in several comic situations that arise. Philip Barry is one of the most prolific of playwrights having had at least one play a year on Broadway for the past several seasons. Another of his plays is "The Philadelphia Story." The agonies of a dentist's chair are told in "Wisdom Tooth" by Marc Connelly. The final play to be reviewed was Rachel Crothers' "As Husbands Go," the story of two women vacationing in Paris who find that their own husbands are the best after all.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen, John street, Monday, February 9, at 2:30 o'clock.

Senior Luther League Has

Valentine Party Last Evening

Last evening the Senior Luther League of the Trinity Lutheran Church was entertained at a Valentine party in the church assembly rooms. Various Valentine games were played as arranged by the program committee. The hall and tables were decorated in red and white with candles and at each place party snappers.

Birthstone Gems Are Studied

At Olympian Club Meeting

Mrs. Arthur M. Cragin had the paper of the evening at the Olympian Club meeting held last evening at the home of Miss Anna M. Decker, on Lafayette avenue. She took as her subject, "Gems" and in particular birthstones.

She told of the origin of birthstones, the places from which they came and many interesting legends and stories concerning them. Samples of most of the gems mentioned were on exhibit to those present.

The club voted to study poems and stories of the opera for next year. The next meeting will be held, February 16, with Miss Sadie E. Schutt as hostess.

Successful Comedy Given

At Baptist Church

On Monday evening, February 2, the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church presented the three-act comedy "Calm Yourself!" in the church hall. The performance was under the direction of Mrs. Chester Greene.

The story opened in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, portrayed by George Compton and Mabel Terwilliger, respectively. Mr. Smith was a middle-aged grouch who enjoyed his diseases, checkers and wise-cracks. His wife was a flighty person who was always attempting to recapture her lost youth. How these two got along with their famous house guest of the evening, Harold Ainsworth, a Hollywood art director, made possible many tense moments of drama and comedy for the audience. Ainsworth was portrayed by William Arnold. An able supporting cast plus a cuckoo clock added merriment to the occasion.

Stage and properties were under the supervision of Douglas Harvey and Arthur Jones. Between intermissions musical entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Florence Cuberly, violinist, and Mrs. H. Victor Kane, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Lester Decker.

Will Sponsor Second Dance At St. Peter's

Members of the dramatic club of St. Peter's Church will sponsor the second in a series of winter dances and social hours at the school hall, Adams street, Monday night, February 16, starting at 8:30 o'clock. Music for dancing will be furnished by "Speed" Scheerer and his orchestra, which on January 16 in the opening of the series pleased an overflow crowd at the hall.

Plans for a program of entertainment, by outside talent, are underway. A committee consisting of Leo Schupp, Edward Norton, Woodie Rodden and the Rev. Martin Schwalenberg is making final arrangements for the entertainment.

The Rev. Father Schwalenberg is in charge of the general committee. A ticket sale will be launched by the committee today. Couples desiring to secure tickets at the door may do so.

Is Bride of Ensign Johnstone

Mrs. Emerson G. Johnstone

Mrs. Elizabeth Clough of Woodstock announces the marriage, Monday, January 26, of her daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Clough, to Ensign Emerson Gray Johnstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnstone of Albany. The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. G. Edward Carothers, pastor of the Middlebury Methodist Church, Middlebury, Vt.

The couple was attended by Miss Virginia Witte of Rockville Center, L. I., and Robert J. Aikitt, Jr., of Burlington, Vt. The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, Class of 1938, is a senior at Middlebury College and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Ensign Johnstone was graduated from Albany Academy, attended Middlebury College and is on active duty with the United States Naval Air Corps.

Committee Plans Conference

A committee representing nine different Y. W. C. A.'s met in Kingston Saturday to plan the annual spring conference of high school Girl Reserves which is to be held at the Kingston Y. W. C. A. April 18. Various responsibilities for the conference were delegated to the different "Ys." The committee chose as the theme for the conference this year, "Bridges to Tomorrow." Plans are being made for 125 to 150 delegates at the conference who will represent the cities of Hudson, Cohoes, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Gloversville and Kingston.

Mrs. Edgar Windigstadt Is

Elected by Junior League

Mrs. Edgar Windigstadt was elected secretary of the Junior League at the meeting yesterday afternoon. A vacancy in this office was caused by the illness of Mrs. Robert Moseley, Jr. A report was given by the welfare committee, Mrs. Sanger Carlton and Mrs. Harry R. LeFever, Jr. The afternoon closed with a social hour at which tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. Mortimer Downer. Mrs. John G. Myers Hill-ton assisted by pouring.

Red Cross War Fund

A substantial contribution toward the $45,000 American Red Cross War Fund to be raised by the Ulster County Committee will help keep the fighting men healthy, happy and efficient.

Smith-Murphy

Miss Anne D. Murphy of 59 Meadow street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Murphy, became the bride of Edward J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Smith of 150 Broadway, Wednesday, January 21, at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Connors, Organist at the wedding was Theodore Riccoboni.

The bride wore a blue dress with hat and accessories to match and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Miss Marion R. Smith, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a gold dress with brown accessories, and a corsage of tall-tan roses. Daniel J. Murphy, brother of the bride was best man for the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at McCabe's Restaurant. After a wedding trip to New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in this city.

Good Taste Today

Bride-Elect Advised Not to Permit Second Postponement of Her Wedding

Although I do not believe in the encouragement of belief in omens, I can very well understand the feeling of the young women who writes this:

"I was to have been married almost a year ago, when I was taken seriously ill and the wedding had to be postponed. I have recovered at last and all arrangements again have been made, not only with the consent of my parents but with those of my fiancé who talked things over with him and gave him their approval. Now, after we've gone ahead and the invitations are engraved and the arrangements made, his mother sends me word that she would like to have the wedding date put off till early Spring because she has learned that a great many of their out-of-town relatives will not be able to make the journey to my town in mid-winter."

"As it happens, I do not wish to change my wedding date again; in addition to the expense of re-engraving the invitations—and feeling not at all sure whether any—and yet would still be sure that I think it's a bad omen to keep changing the day. But will you please tell me how I can say this to my future mother-in-law without starting off on the wrong foot?"

I agree that it would be unfortunate to start your married life by any seeming lack of consideration for your mother-in-law's wishes. And yet I am sure that much is to be gained ultimately by giving in to what is certainly an unreasonable request at this late hour. Had she discussed the mid-winter cold in your part of the country when your plans were being made, it would have been asking a good deal even then to ask a two or three-months later day—and yet you might have felt it necessary to comply. But now that your preparations are made, I think there is nothing that you can do except explain that everything has been arranged and that you can't change. Moreover, if your fiancé may be called into service, a put-off wedding might very well have to be put off for the duration.

Husband Objects to Black Stockings

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband insists that scarcely visible—except for a heel patch—black stockings are more conspicuous than none at all and therefore in poor taste. He also objects to my wearing my hair in a long bob. He says both are to "high style" (he really means "low style") for his wife!

Answer: I must answer that both are being worn by any number of people who are not only followers of fashion but who are looked upon as having good taste. The fact that I have always protested against long bobs proves nothing except that I happen to disagree with the present moment's fashion (as I have done many times before).

The present question is whether they are becoming to you. I may be wrong, but my guess is that they are not becoming to you. I think this because few devoted husbands take kindly to clothes which they consider unflattering. (It is very good check on us that they don't!)

Mercury Hits Five Below

In Continued Cold Spell

Kingston was again in the grip of zero temperatures last night, and early this morning a low as 5 degrees below zero was recorded on Hurley avenue, while at the city hall the thermometer recorded a low of 2 degrees above at 8 o'clock.

The zero temperatures followed a day of intense cold on Monday when the highest point reached by the city hall thermometer was 24 degrees at 1 o'clock that afternoon. At 11:30 o'clock last night the city hall thermometer was registering 5 degrees above zero.

EXTRA TOUCH NEEDED TO MAKE SANDWICHES OF DISTINCTION

Anyone can make a sandwich by placing a slice of meat or cheese between two slices of bread, but it takes a deft touch and added flavor to create the kind of sandwiches that give you a reputation. The new Cookbooklet, "500

Super Sandwiches
1 (4-ounce) can mushrooms
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup sliced ripe olives
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
6 thin slices American Cheese
12 slices bread

Nothing is quite so satisfying as an evening snack as a plate of assorted sandwiches and even substantial sandwiches may be cut into a variety of shapes with the crusts removed. The new Sandwich Book presents 500 bright ideas for every kind of menu.

Tasty Sandwiches," latest in the Kingston Daily Freeman's series of 20 being released a book each week, is a wonderful guide to every kind of sandwich making. Whether it's for a party, after-school snack or a regular meal, you'll find exactly the kind of sandwich you want for the occasion.

Best of all, most of them are so easy to make, that unexpected company will be welcome just so that you can dazzle them with the delicious sandwiches you whip together at a moment's notice.

Here's a good one to start with: Tasty Cheese and Vegetable Sandwiches

½ can condensed vegetable soup
4 to 6 tablespoons cooked salad dressing
½ cup cottage or cream cheese
12 slices bread, buttered
Combine soup, cheese and salad dressing. Spread between slices of bread. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Here's a hot sandwich that's almost a meal in itself and given 15 minutes, you'll surprise everyone with it.

Old Bruin awoke with a jump and start, And looked at his calendar handy. Said he to himself "I feel in my bones, It's the second of February. I am due to go out on this very day. To view the landscape over." So he hid him forth and looked around At a world all frosted and snowy. The sun shone bright as with sleepy eyes. He glanced so very warily around Then looking down his shadow spied. Before him upon the ground. He shook his head and shivered. His nice warm bed was cozy. And said to himself as back he crept. That the prospects were not rosy. Perhaps when again he tried this stunt. He'd get a welcome warmer. He'd just creep back for a nice long nap. In his dark cozy corner.

Lost Sales

Sales are lost because the salesman failed to learn anything about the prospect's business—his needs. Sales are lost because the salesman failed to show the prospect the advantages to him—the buyer. Sales are lost because the salesman took too long to get around this competitor's ddd. Sales are lost because the salesman argued about details, as, "It can't be molded that way", instead of talking benefits to the buyer. Sales are lost because the salesman failed to anticipate the prospect's objections. Sales are lost because the salesman talked too much about competition—he failed to sell his own outfit. Sales are lost because the salesman failed to get and hold the other fellow's interest.

Mrs. Peck—Henry, do you think we are prepared for war?
Henry (alarmed)—Why? Is your mother coming to visit soon?

WORK. Too many persons are content to do just enough to get by. Then they grumble and growl because they don't get anywhere. There are two kinds of failures: The man who will do nothing he is told, and the man who will do nothing else.

Booth Tarkington was visiting Naples; he was present at an eruption of Vesuvius.

Italian Friend (with pride)—haven't anything like that in America, have you?

Mr. Tarkington—No, we haven't, but we have Niagara Falls. It would put that thing out in five minutes.

Young people, age 19 to 23, & not professional criminals commit the greatest percentage of burglaries and robberies.

Goodness—I've forgotten more than you ever knew.

Rufus—I thought you must have met with some misfortune, poor fellow.

She is a graduate of St. Louis University, law department, but gives much of her time to historical research. After digging up facts for a patent, she went to see a dress rehearsal and forgot her pocketbook.

When the purse was found the next day on the grounds, it was minus money and spectacles, but still contained house keys, rouge, lipstick and a defense bond.

She struggled along without her glasses for a week, and then went to her optometrist for a new pair. His examination for glasses showed that her sight had improved 25 per cent!

Passenger (to motorman)—Can't you go any faster than this?

Motorman—Sure I can, but I have to stay with the car.

"Goodwill as between buyer and seller is the attitude of mind which breeds mutual respect and confidence, and makes the two more willing to do business with each other than with someone else."

Dietician—An exclusive vegetable diet would give you a trim figure.

Patient—(skeptically)—Did you ever take a good look at a hippopotamus?

Did you give a hasty glance all around to see if any one was looking, when you fell down? Of you did—you're just human.

Visiting Friend—Well, well, so now you and your son carry on the business together?

Market Owner—Yes! I run the business and my son does all the carrying on.

It is a mystery how the family "necessities" keep rising to equal father's increased income.

The men who have accomplished most in the world have been men who worked hard and long before they achieved success.

DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

YESTERDAY: The day is not ended, and Sharon has found her life completely changed. Tom Stafford, who barges in early in the morning, has turned out to be, according to Mr. Goodwin, Sharon's boss, an enemy spy. Sharon has been asked to watch Stafford—and rather against her will, has made a date for dinner with him. And still another shipment from Sierra Steel has been lost to the enemy.

Chapter Five Counterplot

"We can wait for the saboteur to strike again—and catch him at it," Goodwin said calmly. "Don't let Stafford know you have any suspicions about this matter. I'm keeping my concern even from the plant foreman until I get trace of that shipment. I'm simply running orders for a duplicate shipment with which I hope to bait our friend the enemy. Here's the story you are to stick to. The shipment was mislaid, is being traced. We are sending a duplicate order immediately. Wire Los Angeles to that effect—and—A quiet smile curved his finely chiseled lips, "be sure that Stafford overhears that message."

Sharon felt her knees trembling as she turned to the door. The curtain on her act was going up. She'd had her cue for first entrance. No wonder she felt paralyzed with stage-fright. "Look here," Goodwin called back, "any luck yet with your part of the campaign?"

"I'm having dinner with him tonight."

"Fine—splendid. And I'll have a party—all it a housewarming for my new penthouse. Suppose you maneuver him into bringing you along about eleven. I'll arrange to have lots of guests there so it will look casual enough. Give me an opportunity to get better acquainted with him. Scotch and soda does a lot to further friendships, you know!"

Sharon hesitated. It didn't seem quite sporting to—"Of course, I'll try."

"I'll expect you, then. Good luck to you!" His handsome face broke into a real smile as, pressing her hand lightly, he looked deep into her eyes a moment. "Mata Hari!"

Sharon felt her breath jammed in her throat. Mata Hari—most famous woman spy who ever served her country. And also, Sharon remembered uneasily, the most famous ever to be stood against a wall one grim, grey dawn and shot!

My Sweet

TOM STAFFORD had already left when Sharon came out of Mr. Goodwin's office. But there was a note rolled into her typewriter.

"Don't be alarmed but I've gone to the plant to do a little work. I'm not ill. Just overly conscientious! I'll be planted on your doorstep tonight at eight. Until then, my sweet, T.S."

"My sweet!" Sharon ripped the note to fragments. Smart guy! She really should break the date, deflate that colossal ego a notch or two. Then she smiled wryly. If he only knew why she was letting that ego have plenty of rope!

She sent the telegram to Los Angeles, careful to leave a copy on the spindle in plain sight on her desk. Tom could hardly miss seeing it, particularly if he were looking for information! There was going to be some advantage after all in their having desks that practically adjoined.

Partly because it was late and partly because of the nice warm feeling about her raise, she taxied home.

Dennis was just swinging off the crowded bus when her cab drew up to the curb.

"Well, Duchess," he said, his handsome, boyish smile as she ran toward him. "Riding soft, huh?"

"Oh, Dennis, the most wonderful thing has happened!" She hugged his arm, tried to thaw his frosty sarcasm. "Guess what?"

"That gold-plated boss of yours is going to keep you in a style to which you aren't yet accustomed." He drew away from her almost roughly.

"Don't be insulting."

"That's no insult. That's a compliment on your knowing how to play the game smart. You'll never get rich pounding a typewriter, you know."

"Then I'll stay poor," she replied promptly and led the way across the dingy foyer, buzzed for the creaking elevator. "Honesty is still the best policy, believe it or not."

"I don't," Dennis clanged the iron gate. "Most of the chaps that have real dough in their pants probably haven't been any too fussy how they earned it."

"Dennis Doyle! If mother could hear you—"

"She'd disown me. I know." Dennis pushed open the door to apartment No. 317, tossed his cap toward the table, flung himself on the sagging davenport. "And don't preach, sis. All I want is a chance to get a little fun out of life before I get to be twenty-one and eligible to break my neck in some army plane crack-up."

"Thousands of army pilots don't break their necks," Sharon reminded him sharply. "And thousands of boys your age would be glad of a job that pays twenty a week for only part time—"

"Peanuts!" Dennis rolled over, pulled a pillow under his head. "What was your wonderful news?"

Irvin Barley at Ellenville, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Rowe and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Dusen of Tillson visited Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lyons, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Fred Barley called on her mother, Mrs. Lottie Roosa Friday afternoon.

Mrs. John Kuhlmann and John Jr., and Mrs. Sherman Lyons spent Wednesday afternoon at Ellenville.

Sharon hesitated. With Dennis in one of his black Irish moods, her news wouldn't help any.

"I'm—that is—Mr. Goodwin's giving me a raise."

"Yeah!" Dennis' dark brows lifted, his smile gave grudging approval. "Nice going."

"Maybe now we'll have enough money for you to enroll in that air school you—"

"Keep your money, sis," he interrupted. "I'm no object for your charity yet!"

Winning, Sharon bit back her own anger. Poor Dennis! So terribly young, so intense. If he just would listen to reason instead of his hot-headed pride.

"I didn't mean it as charity, Dennis," she answered quietly. "I could lend you some and if you saved the money you make instead of—"

She stopped, arresting the words that sprang to her lips. "Instead of shooting it in playing poker with my low-brow friends," Dennis finished angrily. "Well, why didn't you say it?"

"I'm sorry. I was only trying to help."

Turning, she started towards her own room. In the next instant, Dennis was behind her, his arms around her, his hug pulling her off her feet.

"I know you were, sis," he said, and kissed her soundly. "I'm a lug and I know it. I won't amount to a row of chestnuts but it won't be your fault, kid. Just you forget about me. I'll get by."

Black Irish

SHARON blinked back tears. "You're a nice guy, Dennis. If you just wouldn't listen to the black Irish in you."

"I won't," he promised glibly. "I'll even take you out to dinner tonight to celebrate your raise. How's that?"

Sharon saw that his dark eyes still smoldered despite his pretense of gaiety. And of course, tonight of all nights that he needed her company, she'd have to refuse.

"I'm sorry, dear. I've a date with Tom Stafford."

Dennis' smile faded. "So? And who's Tom Stafford?"

"The new engineer from Eastern. He arrived this morning and—"

"And dates the little stenog to show her the bright lights, huh?" Dennis shrugged. "Not bad, you. Doyle. Congratulations, sis. You're learning."

Her temper broke loose. "I'm not learning anything except that it's impossible to make you see straight through your prejudices. Just because someone invites me to dinner is no reason to suppose I'm going to capitalize on it."

"Well, aren't you?" Sharon stopped short. Well—her conscience spread a quality flush over her cheeks. "No—I mean—well not the way you think."

"Uh-huh. Little sister does just fine until it comes to practicing what she preaches. Never mind, Sharon. We'll be cutting the mustard with the best of them. Just leave it to the Irish."

"You're impossible," she blurted. "Dennis' sarcastic laugh followed her, rang in her ears as she slipped out of her street clothes, hurried through her shower. If only she were older, wiser, and better able to influence him. Maybe then she could make him appreciate real values and stop chasing false gold."

But she always let her own temper get away. Perhaps tonight, if she could have gone with him, they could have renewed the old affection they'd always shared. But of course her job had to come first. That was the roof over their heads and the food in the refrigerator. Dennis' job was only part-time and not too secure. Maybe tomorrow night she'd go with him. Dinner and a good show. Dennis would like that.

She was just fastening her one really nice rhinestone clip to the deep V of her blue dinner dress when the phone rang.

She hurried to open her door. Maybe that was Tom breaking the date. Dennis answered and a moment later she heard him close the kitchen door quietly, heard his voice in brief, muffled responses.

Wondering, she went back to her dressing table. Why all the secrecy? Dennis' calls didn't usually involve anything more mysterious than a movie with one of his pals. Although lately he'd grown away from his little-boy frankness and enthusiasms into a new, hard-shelled cynicism. She still never knew when to believe this new version or when to expect the old, impulsive, lovable boy to return. Surely it was only a phase of his growing up. He needed his mother and father to help with his adjustment to an indifferent world.

She forgot Dennis for a moment when she met herself in her new dress in the full length mirror. Even Dennis had often told her she was pretty as a dream in blue. And the full-pleated skirt, the soft, sculptured bodice gave grace to her every movement.

And thank fortune for the grey caracul cape—heritage from her mother and remodelled to make an evening wrap. Her gloves, her beaded evening bag, another heirloom, and she was ready.

Out in the living room again she found a florist's box and, on top of it, a note from Dennis.

AMERICANS ALL: III

Little Tokyo's Nisei Are Fighting for Uncle Sam Now

American-born Sumidas Cut A Rug, American Style
"The United States Is Worth Fighting For."

By F. H. FRAWLEY
AP Feature Service

Los Angeles—If Los Angeles county, nerve center of Pacific coast war production, is apprehensive about its 60,000 Japanese, there is no outward sign.

The FBI upon the declaration of war interned some Japanese nationals and the Treasury Department placed certain economic restrictions against others.

But the Nisei, or American-born Japanese, who comprise two-thirds of the 150,000 Nipponese in Continental United States and Hawaii, are generally held above suspicion. They are as modernly American as tomorrow. They have discarded almost every trace of Japanese tradition.

Typical Nisei Family
Typical family in "Little Tokyo," Los Angeles Japanese settlement, is that of Chimata Sumida, a merchant, who came to the United States 30 years ago and three years later sent back for his "picture bride," Masako. They have three daughters, two sons.

The boys are students at the University of California at Los Angeles, majoring in business administration. One daughter is in junior high school, two were graduated with honors and now are secretaries.

Life at the Sumida home is not greatly unlike that of the average American family of European ancestry, except perhaps for some variance in food habits.

There is a close family attachment, industry and thrift are indoctrinated, but all play as hard as they work. The children "cut the rug" on occasions and can execute the latest dance steps.

Golfing Family

Father Chimata is proud of his children, says he hasn't had to prod them but rather has prodded relaxation and enjoyment of life. All the children play golf and the boys and the father are proficient enough to have captured numerous trophies that adorn the family "bull pen," equivalent of the rumpus room.

The war has injected a sombre note to everything in "Little Tokyo," however. Nisei say they haven't detected any special unfriendliness from other Americans and that the young children have not been "baited" at school.

Everyone in the community is eager to do his part in helping to whip the Axis powers.

Suicide for Japan

Father Sumida, who has traveled extensively in the Orient, feels that Japan finally has come to the end of her dangerous expansion program, and that when she attacked the United States, she sealed her doom as a first-rate nation. The militarists, he believes, are committing national harakiri.

Daughter Grace, who spent 18 months in Japan a few years ago, was glad to get back. The trip climaxed her college education and while she was glad to study the land of her ancestors, she would not want to live where the husband summons his wife by the clasp of his hands and she must, out of respect, walk behind him.

Sons Marshall and Theodore are still too young for the army but will be glad to do their hitch, they say, whenever needed. They and all other Nisei agree that life in the United States is worth fighting for, and 2,000 of them have joined the army to do just that.

RUBBER GROWS IN THE EAST INDIES . . .

As everyone has come to know virtually all the crude rubber available in the United States today is now needed for war purposes.

Rubber comes from the East — from Malaya and the Dutch East Indies. With these countries now a battleground the production and transportation of crude rubber has been interrupted. How long this condition will exist or how long it will be before enough synthetic rubber can be produced to equal the demand, no one knows.

To be perfectly frank about it, the shortage of rubber may continue for several years to come.

How is this going to affect you, our customers, as far as our service to you is concerned? True, we are an essential industry and we can probably procure replacement tires and tubes for trucks engaged in the transportation of men and materials for the purpose of maintaining and repairing gas and electric facilities.

But we are as anxious as you are to aid the defense program and conserve rubber in every way possible. Therefore we have taken a large number of automobiles off the roads and the rubber from them will be made available for vehicles required for the most important work.

In some ways this may curtail our service to you. If, some day, you advise us you are in need of our services, we may not be able to dispatch a man to your home immediately. Instead we may ask you if you can wait a day or two when there will be a truck in your vicinity.

Cases of emergency will, as always, have prompt attention.

We owe first allegiance to our country. Our next duty is to you, our customers. Part of that duty is to inform you of changes which become necessary under existing conditions. At times, when your patience may be tried, won't you please bear with us?

Former Kingston Woman Describes Pearl Harbor Raid

The many friends of Miss Helena Clearwater, formerly of Kingston, 1st. Lieutenant, A. N. C., Schofield Barracks, Oahu, Territory of Hawaii, will rejoice to learn that despite the Pearl Harbor attack she is safe and well.

In a letter just received by a friend, Miss Clearwater gave this most interesting account of the beginning of the Pearl Harbor attack, in which she said in part, "I had just finished my morning report when I heard a noise like an explosion, so I went out on our balcony where several patients and doctors had gathered to watch what they thought was an air maneuver."

"In a short time the planes flew low over our heads and we saw the 'Rising Sun,' and also could see their faces. Of course then we knew that in a time of Peace we were attacked. We have every reason to remember Pearl Harbor, as well as Hickman Field and our own Schofield Barracks. "I called all our nurses to duty and they behaved like veterans. Our soldiers were marvelous. If we had been at war of course we would have expected something, but just at the time when that Japanese was talking 'Peace' in Washington, they attacked us. We had every reason to be proud of our soldiers for there was not one word of complaint even among the wounded."

Miss Clearwater closed her letter with a message of appreciation to all of her friends, who have been and are so generously remembering her with letters and she thanked each and every one for the prayers and letters which they have sent to her, all of which she may not be able to answer individually much as she wishes to.

Sanford Reports 75 Cases Of Whooping Cough Here

Whooping cough has been prevalent in Kingston since the first of the year, and so far this month six new cases have been reported to the Board of Health.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said this morning that during January 75 cases of whooping cough had been reported in the city, and that undoubtedly there were many more cases that had not been reported.

Weekly clinics are being held this winter at the health board rooms in the city hall in an effort to check the spread.

BOTTOMS UP AFTER JAP ATTACK

The U. S. battleship Utah, a 33-year-old target ship, lay bottoms up in Pearl Harbor after Jap bombers made accurate use of her in their December 7 attack. Salvage and inspection crews from the launch at right make their investigations of the big hulk. This is an official U. S. Navy photograph.

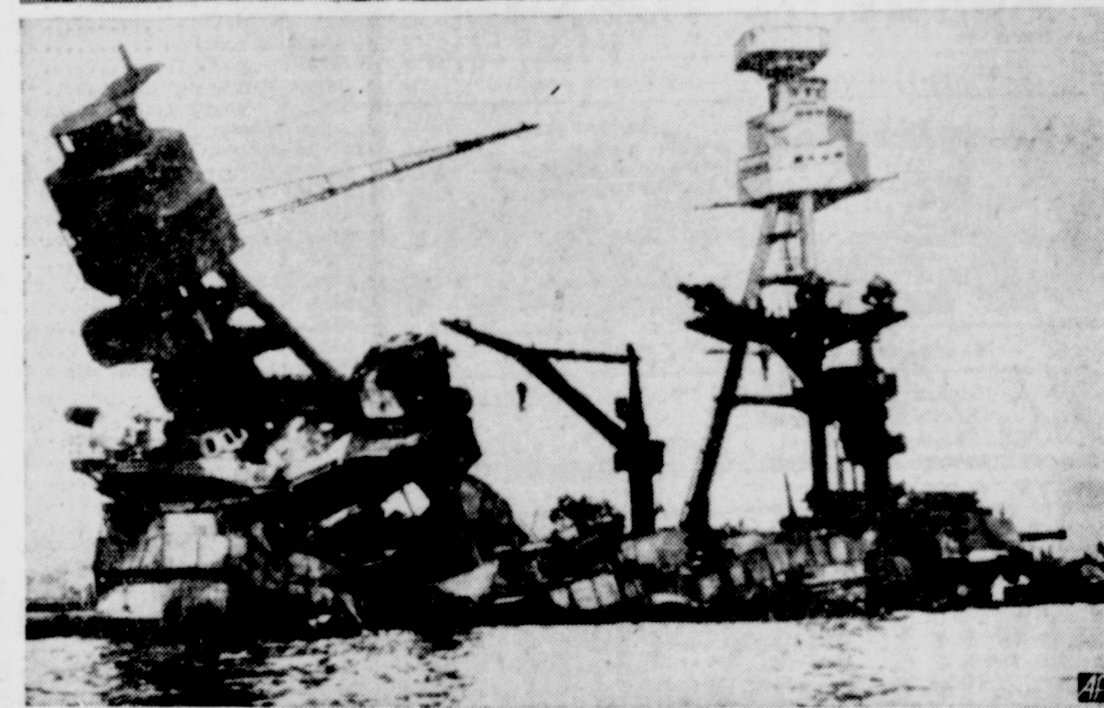

WHEN THE DESTROYER SHAW BLEW UP

This remarkable combat photograph was made at the exact moment that the destroyer Shaw blew up during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor December 7. This is an official U. S. Navy picture.

BATTLESHIP ARIZONA AFTER PEARL HARBOR ATTACK

Black clouds of smoke (top) pour from the battleship Arizona as she lay crumpled after the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor December 7. A bomb was reported to have passed down the smoke stack, exploding the boiler and forward magazine. After the smoke of battle cleared away the Arizona rests on the floor of Pearl Harbor (bottom). These are official U. S. Navy pictures.

Home Defense

Fire Wardens Duties

Kingston's home defense council today issued the following news release outlining the general duties of fire wardens in relation to air raid wardens duties:

"We wish to invite the attention of our citizens to the subject of the Air Raid Warden Service, and the closely allied service of Fire Wardens.

"The Air Raid Warden Service provides a Post Warden, and several assistants to each section of the city for each 100 inhabitants. Their duty is to patrol the streets on their post, and to assist any resident on their post to combat fire, care for the injured, and to call headquarters for assistance for other work that may be required to maintain law and order. This type of work applies largely to our homes where either ourselves or our families spend most of their time, and where we are, at least a part of the dark hours.

"That brings us to the next type of buildings. All sorts of business houses such as churches, schools, halls, banks and hotels, etc. All such buildings will be required to have a person designated as a fire watcher to be responsible to the owner and the City's Civilian Defense for the vigil of the building during an air raid. The owner of renter of person responsible for the building should select for the fire watcher for his or her building, some person in whom they have confidence, and who lives not over ten minutes in walking time from the building they guard, if this is not possible then they should be in the next most advantageous place. They should be provided with a sand bag barricade for protection, loose sand, pails and long handled shovels with which to handle incendiary bombs. If conditions get beyond their control they should call on the post warden for help. This plan provides both protection for the owner's property and protection against fire. By 'Owners Property,' we mean any stock of goods from money to pins. It would not be desirable to have a strange or unknown person going into any building that has a stock of goods unless conditions make the act absolutely necessary. Neither would it be fair to insist that the post warden assume that responsibility because sooner or later some goods would be missing, innocent persons would be blamed, and the entire air raid warden service would be publicly censured. To avoid that situation, we have fire watchers. Each individual responsible for such above described buildings, are requested to designate a fire watcher for their building at once, and to mail the information to the mayor's office as soon as possible. The following plan is to be used in reporting:

Wallkill Man Held On Arson Charge

C. I. Investigators Arrest George Saunders, 31

George Saunders, 31, of Wallkill, is arrested Monday afternoon by C. I. investigators Metzger and Baker, following an investigation to a fire which did considerable damage late Sunday night in the Wallkill Hat Factory, owned by George Rosen. Saunders was arrested before Justice Seth C. Lippincott of Wallkill on a charge of arson, third degree. He was committed to the Ulster county jail pending a further hearing before Justice Lippincott on February 5.

Fire was started in the hat factory in two places, Trooper Metzger said this morning. One fire was started in a room containing baled wool and the other in the laundry on the upper floor. One bale of wool was badly damaged by fire and water, when the sprinkler system went into operation and extinguished the blaze. The other fire did little damage with the exception of burning a hole through the floor.

Saunders came under suspicion when it was found that he had visited the plant Sunday night, contrary to rules established by Mr. Rosen. Trooper Metzger said that when questioned he failed to give satisfactory answers and his arrest followed.

No. 61, Charles Roosa against Walter Madajewski, damages resulting from negligence. Joseph B. Duggan for plaintiff and N. LeVan Haver for defense.

Unemployed Increased
Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The WPA said today that despite the accelerated war production effort the number of unemployed had risen by 400,000 in January and now totaled 4,200,000. This was accounted for, the WPA said, by seasonal factors in agriculture and retail trade, combined with economic dislocation resulting from the war.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Crawford Vredenburg who died in Astoria, L. I., January 31, was held at the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the First Reformed Church, officiated. Burial was in Wilkewick cemetery.

The services of Mrs. Sarah Agnes Spencer Whispell, wife of Ervin M. Whispell, who died January 30, were held from her late residence 36 Derrenbacher street, Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Lester H. Luck, pastor of the Alliance Gospel Church, officiated. Burial was in Halcottsville cemetery.

Robert E. Sutton, 71, a retired fruit and vegetable dealer, died on Saturday in his home on Pancake Hollow road, Highland. He had been in failing health for some time. Survivors are his widow, Anne Hoffman Sutton, two sons, Henry and Justin Sutton, two daughters, Mrs. Claude Pulver and Mrs. Eli Walker, all of Highland; two brothers, Panken Sutton of Newburgh, and Fletcher Sutton of Queens, L. I.; two sisters, Miss Lena Sutton and Mrs. Jane Ferguson of Newburgh, and 17 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held today with burial in the Highland cemetery.

Wilbur Cashdollar died at his home in Woodstock on Tuesday, February 3. Mr. Cashdollar had resided in the town of Woodstock his entire life. He was the father of Supervisor Albert Cashdollar. Surviving relatives are his wife, Mrs. Sarah Cashdollar; two sons, Albert of Woodstock and Everett of Wittenberg; five daughters, Mrs. John Mundy, Mrs. Clarence Bolton, Mrs. John White, Mrs. Helen Ostrander of Woodstock and Mrs. Harry Schryver of Kingston; three grandsons and six granddaughters, also two sisters, Mrs. Barnett MacDaniel and Miss Alice Cashdollar of Shady. Funeral services will be held at the Lasher Funeral Home in Woodstock Friday, February 6, at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Woodstock cemetery.

Charles Tonsky, a lifelong and highly respected resident of this city, died early this morning following a long illness. For many years he was a valued employee of the Board of Public Works and was held in high esteem by a very large circle of friends. He had been a lifelong and faithful member of St. Peter's Church. He was the husband of the late Magdalen Seifin Tonsky and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Beichert with whom he made his home; one grand son, Daniel J. Beichert, and one granddaughter, Miss Mary E. Beichert, all of this city. The funeral will be held from the late home 299 Foxhall avenue, Friday morning at 9 o'clock and 9:30 at St. Peter's Church where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

Miss Mary Harmon of 114 Foxhall avenue died suddenly at an early hour this morning. Her death came as a shock to her many friends. Monday evening Miss Harmon attended the Novena at St. Mary's Church, later visiting some friends as was her custom every Monday evening. Returning home she did not complain, but was in her usual good spirits. About midnight she complained of not feeling well and the family physician was called and did everything possible to relieve her but she grew steadily worse and expired at 3 o'clock this morning. Miss Harmon was born and lived in Kingston her entire life. She was known throughout the city for her kindly and always happy disposition. She was the daughter of the late Thomas and Catherine Garritty Harmon. Surviving her is one brother, James Harmon of Pittsfield, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. John P. Keefe with whom she resided. The funeral will be held Friday morning from her late residence at 8:45 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Bill Would Put New York on Time

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—A bill which would permit New York to "keep time" with the nation-wide establishment of daylight saving next Monday will get prompt attention of the legislature.

Introduced last night by Republican Assemblyman Jerome C. Kreinheder, Buffalo, the measure would provide that "at 2 a. m., February 9, standard time shall be advanced one hour for the period of the war and six months thereafter, unless congress designate an earlier (repeal) date."

Existing state law, under which many communities annually observe daylight saving, decrees the time advance be made not earlier than the last Sunday in March and not later than the last Sunday of October in the same year.

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—The general direction of the stock market was upward today although gains were restricted to fractions in most cases and many issues failed to get ahead.

Moderately higher trends appeared at the start. Plus signs were in the majority near the final hour. Dealings were a shade faster than in Monday's slowest session since last June. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 350,000 shares.

Domestic business developments were overshadowed by a considerable degree as a bullish influence by apprehension over the fate of Singapore. Other war news was about a stand-off. The theory the market might have been "oversold" provided some bidding inspiration.

Bonds were mixed. Recently weak commodities steadied. In the stock division Lima Locomotive edged into new high ground for the past year. New High & Williams pushed up on a good earnings statement. Supported also were Union Pacific, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Standard Oil (N. Y.), Allied Chemical, U. S. Rubber and International Harvester.

Hershey Says Requirements For Army To Be Lowered To Swell Ranks at Once

Farmers Are Told Boom Hits Peak

Henderson, Wickard Set Level of Stability

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The nation's farmers heard straight from headquarters today that the war boom in the market for their products has gone about as far as the Agriculture Department and the Office of Price Administration will permit.

Leon Henderson, the Price Administrator, and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard disclosed yesterday they were in "complete agreement" that the cost of living should be stabilized.

The agriculture department will do its part by using government-owned stocks of grains and cotton "to supplement private stocks" and by keeping feed prices at levels which encourage production of meat and livestock products.

The Price Administrator will reciprocate by bearing down on the prices of things farmers buy.

The joint statement did not disclose how high they planned to let farm prices go, but Wickard said yesterday he would oppose rises much above parity as injurious both to farmers and consumers.

Parity is a price which would give farm products the same purchasing power as they had in a stipulated previous period—for most crops, the years 1909-14.

Farm prices averaged 102 per cent of parity of January 15, the agriculture department reported. Some were much higher, some lower.

Expect to Limit Tire Retreading

Rationing Is Predicted for Near Future

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Rationing of retreaded tires as well as new tires and tubes may begin this month, it was learned from government sources today.

While spokesmen for the Office of Price Administration, in which is vested all rationing authority, would not comment on the multi-ple reports that retread rationing was in the immediate offing, other sources confirmed that only delays in deciding on the final form of the order had deferred its issuance.

There was indication that it might be announced this week, effective next Monday or the Monday following, complete with state and county sales quotas like those fixed January 1 for new tires.

The shortage of "caneback," the crude rubber material from which retreads and "recaps" are made, was emphasized today by an official statement that no camel-back would be allotted this month for passenger car tire retreading. The entire monthly allotment—its size was not revealed—will go into military orders and into truck tires.

Attended Funeral

A number of county officials and men prominent in Republican councils went to Milton Monday morning for the funeral in St. James Church of Thomas W. McManus, for 60 years a resident of Milton and one of the Republican leaders in that section. Among those attending the funeral were: Judge J. Edward Conway, Sheriff Howard C. Anderson, County Treasurer Chester A. Lyons, and Deputy Luther Dushinber, Roscoe V. Elsworth, county attorney; James F. Loughran, county superintendent of highways; Albert D. Kniffin, county welfare commissioner; J. H. Heaton, county auditor; John B. Sterley, clerk of the board of elections; Albert Cashdollar, chairman of the board of supervisors and Keates Young of the sheriff's office.

To Advise Taxpayers

Deputy collectors of internal revenue, Max Kaplan, John J. Miller and Philip McDonald will be at the internal revenue office, central post office building, to advise income taxpayers from February 16 to February 24, inclusive and from March 1 to March 16, inclusive. Office hours will be from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily except Saturday, when hours are from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Fire Chiefs Meet

Fire chiefs of Ulster county met at the court house Monday night at the call of Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston, who heads the division of fire protection in the county defense set-up. There was a discussion of ways and means for handling fires in the possible event of an air raid and an inter-change of information as to steps that already had been taken by the heads of the various fire departments represented. County Defense Chairman Albert Cashdollar also was present for the meeting.

Group Favors Loan

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—An authorization for a $500,000,000 war loan to China was approved unanimously today by the House Foreign Affairs committee. Members said the action was taken in a few minutes and without dissent. Immediately after four cabinet officers told them behind closed doors that the loan was necessary to help China prosecute its war effort. Speaker Rayburn had predicted the fast committee action.

Baseball Leagues Vote to Increase Night Game Total

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—The major league baseball clubs today voted to increase the night-game limit from seven to 14 games at the home park of each club with the exception of the Washington Senators, who were granted 21 games.

The major league executives, at their joint meeting, also amended their "curfew" rule on night games to conform with the advent of war time (day light saving), which goes into effect next week, approved the actions of the National and American Leagues in their separate meetings yesterday and removed previous restrictions on early-season Sunday doubleheaders.

The executives, including Commissioner K. M. Landis and Leslie O'Connor, secretary-treasurer of baseball's government, agreed to accept ten per cent of their salaries in defense bonds and to urge their players and other employees to do likewise.

The decision to allow Washington to play 21 night games was reached only after an argument which lasted approximately an hour after the magnates had agreed upon the 14 game limit for other clubs. The Senators had asked for 28 games and it was understood that the compromise on 21 was suggested by Commissioner Landis.

In approving yesterday's decision to play two All-Star games, it was decided today that pitchers will be allowed to work as long as five innings instead of only three. No pitcher who appears in the first game in Brooklyn or New York will be permitted to pitch again in the second contest, which will be held the following day in a western American League park. The pitching rosters of the two All-star squads will be increased to provide two sets of hurlers.

Sawdust Ignites

Sawdust that fell through the register of a pipeless heater in the store of David Samuels on Broadway, at Cedar street, ignited at 10 o'clock this morning, causing the fire department to be called out by a still alarm. There was no damage. Monday evening at 5:35 o'clock the fire department responded to a still alarm for a chimney fire at the house of Mrs. Annie M. Wheeler, 50 Green street.

Executions Continue

Vichy, Unoccupied France, Feb. 3 (AP)—German authorities, retaliating for continued outbreaks of violence against Nazi forces in Occupied France, have executed six Parisian youths and ordered deportation to Eastern Europe for 100 others described as Communists and Jews. The retaliatory measures were announced by Lieut. Gen. Ernest Von Schaumburg, military commander in Paris who said that between January 7 and 28 there were six bombings and shootings in which German army installations or soldiers were the targets.

Recs Will Be at Full Strength for Troy Game Wednesday Night

Middletown Beats Newburgh, 31 to 26, For 2nd Half Win

Bellotto and Burton Lead Attack on Newburgh on Friday; Liberty Is Winner by 38-22

Coach Mac Wagner's Middletown High School basketball team started rolling again as the second half of the DUSO League opened last Friday night and gave indications that its out to clinch both halves in quick style.

The Middies, off to a quick start, turned back Newburgh by the score of 31 to 26. It was Newburgh's second straight reverse including the "unofficial" one to Kingston a few weeks ago.

Frank Bellotto and Bob Burton paced the scoring attack for Middletown with nine markers apiece. Leahy, forward of the N. F. A. quintet, pumped, the cords for 10 points. Kohler had eight.

It was interesting to note that Al Mannheim, of whom there was so much discussion about a few weeks back, officiated the game along with Sprague. Apparently Mannheim has won his point in seeking two officials in any game he arbitrates.

Liberty Downs Ellenville
Led by Bob Manchester, Liberty High School defeated Ellenville Friday night by 38 to 22. It was Liberty's second DUSO win this season. Manchester found the range for 18 points to pace the tribe to this upset victory.

Middletown's rampant quintet will appear at the municipal auditorium Friday night to meet Coach S. Warren Kias' Kingston High School outfit. Middletown is still to be stopped and if any club in the loop can, Kingston is the team.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 3 (Wide World)—Baseball's bosses are afraid to let the night game limit beyond 14 games and some of them still argue it should be strictly a daytime game, but the customers don't seem to agree. A short survey made by the Chicago Daily News indicated that the fans think two or three games a week after working hours would be just about right. Some wanted half twilight games so they wouldn't have to too much sleep before time to go to work. Look for an announcement of a Gus Lesnevich-Jimmy Bivins fight in Cleveland next month. Story is that Mike Jacobs had to let Gus fight in return for the Cleveland promoters' releasing Bob Pastor for last week's brawl. Reviewing the draft situation, Bill Terry wisecracked: "I may be a playing general manager in Jersey City."

Q. and A.
Larry Grill of the Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette reports a high school basketball game at Coolidge, Ariz., during which only one foul was called against the AJO team, which won 39-27. "He wonders if that is a national record... it may be under present rules, but Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune bears of a 1-0 overtime game between two Illinois high schools back in 1929."

Sportspourri
Cheers for the Naismith Memorial Committee for its decision to invest its take from the Golden Ball games in defense bonds. It not only is a fine patriotic gesture, but it should net a nice profit for the basketball hall of fame. Business of patting self on back: This editor suggested the move a month ago. "Sharpest jab of the baseball writers' dinner was made by Arthur Mann as the voice of Charley McCarthy: 'That Landis amazes me—he looks funnier than the guys who imitate him.'... Gilbert Dodds of the Boston A. A., who used to run for Ashland College, may be the one to give Greg Rice or Leslie MacMicheal a tussle in the indoor track meets. He hails from Falls City, Neb., home of Lloyd Hahn, the last great miler to wear the Boston A. A. colors.

Today's Guest Star
Elliott Chaze, Lake Charles (La.) American Press: "Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis seldom right-crosses an antagonist's dental bridge before he gets to it."

Call Him Grand-Par
George L. Lovell, 85-year-old retired banker from Monticello, Iowa, recently turned in a five-over-par 39 for nine holes of the Griffith Municipal Golf Course at Los Angeles. He still plays nine at a time, but still it's what you have to call shooting in the eighties.

Cleaning the Cuff
The Great Lakes (Ill.) Naval Training Station basketball team has a schedule this week that calls for five games in six nights against clubs from three college conferences. A Des Moines scribe, reporting on the swarms of reserves the colleges have used against Great Lakes, remarks: "No sub can sink this navy." Abe Greene, the N. B. A. President, suggests reviving the junior welterweight class to provide a title shot for Ray Robinson, who can't get a whack at the welter crown until the navy gives Red Cochran time off to train. Bill Osmanski and Johnny Siegal of the Chicago Bears both are dentists. During the grid season they could advertise painful extractions every Sunday.

Stake Races Announced

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP)—Thirty-nine stake races with an added value of $346,500 were announced today by the Chicago tracks for their 67-day coordinated season from 22 to September 7. Arlington Park will present 21 and Washington Park 18.

Supplementing this array will be $722,300 to be distributed in over-night purses with a minimum of $1,500, except for horses in the low claiming races.

Fixtures of the Chicago season are the Arlington Classic, July 25, and the American Derby, August 29, each with $50,000 added money. The Arlington and Washington Park Futurities each will be $20,000 added events and the Arlington Lassie Stakes $10,000 added.

City League

Bowling in the City League at Emerick's Recreation alleys last night found the 500 triple mark just another thing. Hod Spaulding of the Generals came through with the highest at 573. Hod blasted games of 196, 184 and 193.

Of all the good scores rolled last night, Freddie Rice slammed down the highest single for the Sevens with a 211. Following Spaulding's high 573 triple came Al Kieffer with 552. H. Smith slugged up a 546 triple. Scott Vining had a 543. Randy Kolder collected a 537 triple. Harold Broskie a 534 and L. Burger 533.

Kerhonkson Takes 38 to 26 Win Over Walkill Quintet

Victory Is Fourth in Row for League Leaders of N. O. S. U. Circuit; 7th Straight Win

Kerhonkson High School won its seventh game in eight starts and its fourth straight N. O. S. U. League victory last Friday night when it downed Walkill by the score of 38 to 26.

The first half turned out to be a scoring affair with Kerhonkson holding a 23 to 21 lead. The second half saw the winners a greatly improved defensive team which held Walkill to five points.

By virtue of its win Kerhonkson now holds undisputed leadership in the race for N. O. S. U. League honors.

In a preliminary game the Kerhonkson Jayvees scored a 20 to 19 triumph over the Walkill Juniors. The score of the varsity contest:

Babe Barna, recruit outfielder of the New York Giants who was with the Minneapolis American Association Millers last season, has had a hectic time of it at his home in West Virginia since the holidays. First his wife was dangerously ill and he gave a transfusion to speed her recovery. Then he contracted the flu and spent two weeks in bed.

Major Leagues to Sponsor Two All-Star Games This Season; Bonds to Players

Clark Griffith Asks 28 Night Games; Landis Will Rule; League May Help Browns

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—Baseball's bit in this second World War is going to be something more substantial than just helping maintain the morale of the country.

The major leagues decided yesterday they would play two All-Star games instead of one for the "Bat and Ball Fund" and in addition would try to get everyone on their payrolls from Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis down to the batboys to accept 10 per cent of their salaries in defense bonds.

The National and American Leagues were in almost continuous session for seven hours yesterday and they considered other means of cooperating in the war effort—such as exhibition games with service teams and admitting uniformed men free—but their big accomplishments were the double All-Star spectacle and the payroll plan.

They agreed to play the first All-Star game in a National League park in the east (probably the New York Giants' Polo Grounds) on Monday, July 6, and to follow the next day with another skirmish between the same stars in an American League park in the west. The owners admitted an inclination to play this second game at night in the mammoth Municipal Stadium at Cleveland, where they might attract 80,000 fans.

It was agreed that the admis-

Nyack Stars to Appear Here on Saturday; Local Women Bowl Sunday

The Red Cross bowling committee has planned more special attractions at the Central Recreation alleys. Deciding last week's games were popular to the fans and for the aid to the war relief fund, the members will stage two more double-headers this weekend.

Saturday night at the Central alleys Wally Gerken, high average leader of the Hudson Valley League, will bring his Nyack All-Stars in the first half of a home and home money match against the Central Recreation Stars.

Gerken's squad is made up of several noted Westchester county sharpshooters. This match will go on at 9 o'clock. The Colonial City Stars, consisting of the best women bowlers in the city also will appear Saturday night.

For the Sunday twin-bill, "Chief" Mueller of Poughkeepsie is bringing two all-star squads and local fans will get a chance to see the five best male and female bowlers of Poughkeepsie in action against local acts.

Poughkeepsie will be represented by a lineup that will include Mueller, Freddie Dahn, Lou DePaolo, Charlie Cruzan, Frank Veatch and Bill Mackey. They are regulars in the Bridge City and formerly played under the Roe Mover banner.

Kingston's lineup will be the same as usual with Pat Tarsio, Randy Kelder, Johnny Ferraro, Harold Broskie and Charlie Tiano. In the other match, bringing together the female stars of Poughkeepsie and this city, local fans will see another outstanding array of talent. Poughkeepsie will have Eileen Nagensatt, perennial high average leader of the city; Syd Levin, Claudia Simpson, Marion Gillespie, Gladys Sullivan and Ann Happell, all of whom average 160 or better.

The Colonial City five will be at full strength with Evelyn Provenzano, Evelyn Dolson, Charlotte Lapine, Bea Coddington and Rita Markie. Miss Dolson missed the match last Saturday night. When anyone of the five regulars is unable to perform, the odd bowler will be selected from the all-star reserve list of Tillie Hobush, Rose Schatzel, Marie Koenig, Alice Riechley and Evelyn Jones.

Fans of Kingston who like bowling will see plenty of top-notch competition Saturday and Sunday and also will be aiding a great cause in giving their help to the Red Cross War Relief Fund which is making life better for those who are in the armed forces of the United States.

Alf Anderson, Pittsburgh infielder, had his tonsils removed in an operation at Atlanta, Ga., January 15. Soreness in his throwing arm was attributed to a pair of bad tonsils by his physician.

Twilight ball was discussed and the Cleveland Indians indicated they might experiment with one or more games starting at 6:30 p. m. Because of the nationwide switch to daylight saving time there was a general belief that night games in Cleveland and some other cities could not start before 9:30 p. m. and the American League asked the joint meeting today to adjust the rule that prohibits an inning from starting after 11:50 p. m.

The American League also discussed the precarious financial position of the St. Louis Browns and although no announcement was made of any action, Owner Don Barnes said he has received encouragement for the club's future.

Will Buy Equipment

By this means the magnates hoped to inflate to a quarter of a million dollars the fund they have organized to buy baseball equipment for service camps.

The two leagues were unable to reach complete agreement on night baseball and tossed this old argument back into Landis' lap at their special joint meeting today. The National League voted to double the number of its night games to permit a maximum of 14 nocturnal contests at home for each club and this figure was agreeable to all members of the American League except the Washington Senators.

President Clark Griffith of the Senators argued that he had a different situation from other clubs and should have 28 night

Abavath Israel Will Have "Seminary Evening"

Thursday, February 5, at 8 p. m. Congregation Abavath Israel will sponsor a "Seminary Evening," devoted to a discussion of the place of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in American Jewish life. Rabbi Lewis B. Grossman, of the Jewish Center of Mount Vernon will speak on "The Challenge to American Jewry." Vocal selections will be rendered by Mrs. Fay Brooks, who will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. G. Rafalowsky. The ladies of the Sisterhood of Abavath Israel will be the hostesses at the social that will follow the meeting.

The Jewish Theological Seminary is the fountain head of conservative Judaism in America. Founded over 50 years ago as an institution of higher learning for the training of Jewish spiritual leaders, it has produced rabbis, educators and other communal leaders who have been in the forefront of Jewish education, overseas relief, Zionist activities, as well as local charity and interfaith efforts. Its library and museum are the finest of their kind in the world.
The evening will be of a purely educational nature. There will be no solicitation of funds. The entire community is cordially invited to attend.

ALLIGERVILLE

Alligerville, Feb. 3.—The funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Stein Rosenkrans who died in Poughkeepsie Thursday, were held from the Humiston Funeral Parlor Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Douglas Fletcher of Kerhonkson officiating. Burial was in the Steen family plot in the Kysersike cemetery.
Irene Bogart returned to her home from the Benedictine Hospital Friday where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. She is improving rapidly.
Mrs. Martin Hagole of Kingston is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Noonan who has been ill.
Mrs. Celia Steen is still ill in the Benedictine Hospital.

Typhoid fever caused more deaths than gunshot wounds during the Civil War. Last year, however, it accounted for only 1,443 deaths on Census Bureau records.

Extra Jury Panel Drawn for Trial

Fifty Veniremen Called by Judge Conway

An extra panel of 50 jurors was drawn Monday afternoon in County Court. These jurors were summoned to appear at the opening of court at 10 o'clock this morning, when the Hicks murder trial was resumed. Later County Judge J. Edward Conway summoned a second panel of 50 extra jurors to be in attendance at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Because of the large number of excuses allowed and the fact that the trial involves the death penalty for conviction under the indictment, it is expected that there will be required a large number of jurors before the jury box is filled to the satisfaction of the prosecution and the defense. The following jurors were summoned to report at 10 o'clock today:

Russians Forge Ahead in Cold

indicated that Axis spearheads had knifed more than 110 miles beyond newly-recaptured Bengasi.

On the Soviet front, Russia's armies were declared to have inflicted heavy new losses on the Germans and beaten off Nazi counter-attacks launched in a vain attempt to halt the Red army's advance.

In the Ukraine, the German high command acknowledged fresh Soviet pressure northeast of Nazi-held Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov, but asserted that elsewhere on the 1,200-mile battlefield German troops scored local successes despite "stubborn enemy resistance."

Meanwhile, new evidence arose of militant unrest in German-occupied France.
Six bombings and shootings directed against German army installations or soldiers between January 7 and 28 have led to the execution of six Parisian youths and orders for deportation to the east of 100 others officially described as "members of the Communist youth and Jews."

The retaliatory measures—grim but representing a marked recession from mass executions earlier which drew protests from the Pe-tain government—were announced by Lieut. General Ernest Von Schaumburg, Nazi military commander in Paris.

The Russians, fighting on the biggest land front of the whole war, said the Germans had suffered heavy losses in vain attempts to seize the initiative and reported 1,400 killed in three engagements.

One of these was an action which led to Red army capture of a town officially described as important, but identified only as "V."

Public Gets First Chance For Voice in Morgan's Firm

from a partnership to a corporation, according to one partner, was that the inheritance tax could—if a partner died—cause withdrawal from the bank of a huge part of his capital investment.

So the 20 partners at that time became bank officers—there are only 13 left now—with Morgan as chairman of the board of directors. The officers became principal owners of the bank's 200,000 shares of capital stock.

The Securities and Exchange Commission in 1939, basing its figures on the 1938 income tax returns of the partnership, said Morgan had contributed only 9.1 percent of the firm's capital while Thomas W. Lamont, now vice chairman of the board, had contributed four times as much.

George Whitney, the bank president, challenged the figures but refused to give what he said were the "correct percentages."

The bank felt the first impact of the government's increased interest in Wall Street when a 1933 senate investigation, throwing open its records for the first time, disclosed its extensive ramifications in the business world where Morgan partners had 167 directorships in 89 corporations.

The banking act passed that same year—prohibiting banks of deposit to act as investment securities dealers—forced the firm to decide which it would choose. It remained a bank.

But several partners, including

Morgan's son, Henry Sturgis Morgan, withdrew to form the investment House of Morgan, Stanley and Company.

Morgan himself completed 50 years service with the bank on January 1, 1942. He was admitted to partnership in 1892 by his father, who died in 1913, leaving direction of the firm to his son.

The bank's 200,000 shares of capital stock have a par value of $100, making its capital $20,000,000. Its surplus is $20,000,000 and undivided profits as of December 31, 1941, amounted to $1,214,540.
